Ike Gets Doctors' OK; He's Planning To Make Paris Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, pronounced in excellent condition after a new medical examination, today rounded out plans to fly to Paris Friday in an effort to shore up the Western Alliance he helped forge.

The President still has a faint speech impairment and he still is not discharged from medical care stemming from the mild stroke he suffered 16 days ago.

This word came from the White House after three specialists in brain and nerve ailments examined him and consulted with three other doctors.

The six physicians reported the President was "his usual alert self and discussed in detail and with enthusiasm the coming meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization."

After their hourlong examination the doctors said Eisenhower's "general condition was excellent."

"There was no evidence of cerebral hemorrhage (bleeding in the brain) or any serious lesion of the cerebral vessels.

"The difficulty in speaking has continued to improve and in ordinary conversation was almost impossible to detect except by trained observers."

The medical report said, "The consultants unanimously agreed that the President's recovery to date is such that it permits him to attend the Paris meeting."

Minutes after the medical report was prepared, a smiling James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, announced Eisenhower expected to leave by plane for Paris Friday afternoon and would remain there until the following Thursday. This will give him a day after the NATO summit conference ends to confer informally with other Western leaders.

His personal physician Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder will accompany him.

The meeting will bring together the chiefs of state of the 15 NATO powers in an effort to strengthen the alliance in the light of Soviet advances in the military and scientific fields.

Eisenhower will take along with him, among others, Dr. James R. Killian Jr., president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Killian recently was appointed a special presidential aide in charge of coordinating this country's scientific programs.

Others in the American delegation will include Secretary of State Dulles, Secretary of Defense McElroy and Secretary of the Treasury Anderson.

Army Pushing Plans To Loft Its Baby Moon

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Army, successful Tuesday night in launching a modified Redstone test rocket, pushed on today with its program to put up a baby moon.

Top engineers of the Army Ballistics Missile Agency from Redstone Arsenal at Huntsville, Ala., were here and the Army launching area at the Air Force Missile Test Center bristled with inter-related weapons of the Redstone family, waiting for firing.

Additional launchings may be expected almost daily until the climatic attempt to put up an instrumented satellite, and to succeed where the Navy Vanguard attempt of last Friday failed.

The Defense Department said the Redstone test vehicle launched Tuesday night was in the Army Jupiter program.

The program also includes the Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile, capable of distances of 1,500 miles, and the Jupiter C research rocket, which already has been fired a distance of 3,500 miles and to an altitude of 600 miles.

TOP DEFENSE officials visiting the Army Jupiter missile production line at Huntsville were shown a sample of the Army's satellite.

It will weigh about the same as the 21-pound sphere which the Vanguard project hopes eventually to put into orbit.

'Dangerous' Pair Nabbed In Columbus

COLUMBUS (AP) — A couple described by the FBI as "extremely dangerous" was arrested without a struggle Tuesday in a crowded shopping center here.

Five FBI agents and 15 detectives from the Columbus Police Department captured Walter Carl Splitt, 37, of Akron, and Barbara Ann Jones, 20, of Wooster, as they backed their car from a parking place.

How authorities learned the two might be in the shopping center was not disclosed, but the trap was set before they arrived.

The woman had a .38 revolver in her purse, and Detective Lt. Herman Beck said she told him: "I would have shot it out with you if I'd had a chance."

Police said Splitt had a .38 caliber automatic in his pocket and another under the car seat. All the guns were loaded.

E. D. Mason, special agent in charge of the Cincinnati FBI office, said they will be questioned about a series of unsolved bank robberies in Ohio and surrounding states. He said the pair is suspected of supermarket holdups in Dayton and Salem.

Cincinnati Airman Convicted in Slaying

KUSAN, Korea (AP) — A seven-man military court today convicted Airman 3c Carroll D. Taylor of Cincinnati of assault with a dangerous weapon for firing at four Korean girls while on guard duty.

One girl died later of a head wound and another was slightly hurt. Another airman is to be tried for the death.

Taylor was sentenced to nine months confinement with hard labor and with a $75 a month forfeiture of pay.

Taylor was convicted after he admitted shooting at the girls last Sept. 15 when they trespassed on an Air Force bomb supply dump.

This was agreed by the majority of merchants at Wednesday morning's meeting of the Retail Merchants Committee of the Chamber of Commerce during a discussion of plans for the Christma shopping season, which is now getting into full swing here.

A retail sales clinic, sponsored by the Dayton Power & Light Co., also was discussed. General participation in it by the firms represented at the meeting was indicated. Dates for the clinic and the place where it will be held will be decided at the committee's January meeting.

Expulsion Looms

Bread-Butter Issues before Union Leaders

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — AFL-CIO chiefs turned today from their corruption problems to bread-and-butter demands for higher wages and reduced working hours.

Walter Reuther, United Auto Workers president, prepared to take the floor in his first major speech of the AFL-CIO convention in behalf of a resolution calling for a round "of sizable wage increases" and a shortened work week.

These demands jibe with Reuther's plans for bargaining with the auto industry next year and reflect the fears of AFL-CIO economists that unemployment, already reported at 3.2 million in November by the government, may rise to six million by spring.

"The very fact of an economic slackening makes it double imperative that unions gain sizable wage increases to bolster consumer buying power and thereby provide a needed stimulating force for an upturn in the economy," said the AFL-CIO's policy resolution.

The drive for shorter hours is directly contrary to the proposal made by Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) that the present 40-hour work week be scrapped as part of a full mobilization schedule to meet Russia's Sputnik and missile development.

Top labor chiefs here scoffed at Johnson's plan.

Al Hayes, Machinist Union president, said we'd better find jobs for thousands of aircraft and guided missile workers laid off in recent months.

David McDonald, Steelworkers president, pointed out, as did others, that thousands of workers already are working much less than 40 hours a week because of the economic decline. They said America's basic industries are operating at 15 to 20 per cent below capacity.

Russian workers, according to a study recently published by the Labor Department, average 46 hours a week, putting in five eight-hour days and six hours Saturday.

Gotham Traffic Jam Continued By Strikers

Transit Chiefs Able To Keep Only Third Of Subways Running

NEW YORK (AP) — Bedraggled Manhattan workers who live outside the borough wearily climbed out of bed earlier than ever today in a grim effort to beat growing difficulties in the city's worst transit strike.

But as the 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. rush hour reached its peak, the travel jams seemed as bad as Tuesday and the day before, if not worse. The subways normally handle 4½ million passengers daily.

Transit officials managed to keep perhaps a third of the subway trains running, using nonstrikers and supervisory personnel in place of members of the Motormen's Benevolent Assn. who struck at 5 a.m. Monday.

Both city and private bus lines, as well as commuter railroads, sought to help ease the travel plight by marshaling all extra equipment.

But it was a terrific strain all around, because all such facilities ordinarily operate at just about capacity even with subways running normally.

* * *

SUBWAY officials said that of 809 motormen scheduled to work the midnight to 7 a.m. shift on the city's three subway divisions only 299 appeared.

The first violence was recorded early today when a lead pipe was tossed through a window of a subway train, apparently aimed at the nonstriking motorman in the front of the first car. Instead, it shattered the window behind him and hit a passenger on the elbow.

The striking MBA men, who called their walkout in a jurisdictional dispute over union representation in the subway system, doggedly stuck to their refusal to work despite pleas from the governor and mayor, and threats of firing from their jobs.

Backing the City Transit Authority, Mayor Robert F. Wagner warned the strikers that they were causing great economic hardships to the city as well as jeopardizing their own incomes and security.

'Propaganda' Label Put on 15-Page Note

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower is expected to brush aside a 3,000-word letter from Soviet Premier Bulganin. The Russians called the letter "very important;" American officials dismissed it as propaganda.

The message was reported to renew old Soviet proposals to end nuclear bomb tests and to hold a high-level East-West conference to outlaw war.

About noon today, the White House said there would be "no comment at this time" on the 15-page missive, but did nothing to erase the propaganda label.

Associate press secretary Anne Wheaton said she expected that Secretary of State Dulles, who conferred with Eisenhower during the morning, would make any U.S. reply there might be.

Asked if she thought the Russian move was an attempt to "throw a monkey wrench" into the forthcoming NATO meeting, Mrs. Wheaton replied:

"I think it speaks for itself."

* * *

SOVIET AMBASSADOR Georgi Zarubin called the letter "very important" when he talked to reporters after delivering it. But American officials said it was designed to undercut the NATO meeting and to block any attempt to arm America's European allies with nuclear-tipped missiles.

The State Department withheld formal comment until the letter could be translated by experts. These were its main proposals:

1. A halt after Jan. 1 to all nuclear bomb testing. The Western Allies already have rejected this, saying it fails to get at the core of the problem: a ban on A-bomb and H-bomb production with safeguards to prevent cheating. Besides, the Allies want to keep testing for a "clean" H-bomb and small tactical A-bombs.

2. An East-West "conference of leaders" to outlaw war. This, too, has been turned down. The Allies' argument is that showy summit conferences or foreign ministers meetings never get down to brass tacks.

3. A prohibition on producing or stockpiling nuclear weapons in Communist Poland and East and West Germany. This idea was first put forward by Poland at the United Nations last Oct. 2. Nothing came of it. Two weeks earlier Russia had threatened to arm its satellites with nuclear weapons if West Germany got them.

4. The usual Soviet pitch about normalizing world relations and increasing East-West trade. Here again the Allies take the position that such generalizations are worthless unless the Soviets are willing to deal with specifics.

Wilmington Residents Face Delay in Getting Money

Unemployment Claim Records Vanish with Stolen Automobile

About 150 Wilmington area residents will have to wait for expected unemployment compensation money as a result of an auto theft at Loudner's Barbecue, CCC Highway west, Tuesday afternoon.

Records of unemployment comsation claims filed at Wilmington Tuesday were in a car stolen from Mrs. Anne Betts, 839 Lincoln Drive, a representative of the local office of the Ohio State Employment Service.

No Fayette County people were affected by the theft of records, Employment Service officials said.

* * *

FRANK SHELDON of Dayton, area supervisor for the Employment Service said that the agency will do "everything possible to expedite payment of these claims," but he also said the theft "will result in a delay" of payment.

Mrs. Betts, owner of the stolen auto, parked the car in the Loudner lot while she went to lunch on her way back from Wilmington about 2:30 p. m. Tuesday.

The car was gone when she came out of the restaurant.

She was bringing the Wilmington records to the Washington C. H. qmployment service office. The state Highway Patrol is investigating and there is a possibility that federal investigation may be called in.

A 1954 Chevrolet sedan, the auto was blue and gray and bore Ohio license 849 KV.

Winter's Coldest Blast Hits Here

Fayette Countians buttoned up their overcoats and stoked up their furnaces Wednesday as the coldest weather of the season moved in on them during the night.

Temperatures dropped from a high of 38 degrees Tuesday to a low of 14 above zero on weather observer Coyt Stookey's government thermometer. With the drop in temperature, came a short blizzard-like snow squall early Tuesday night, but it left only a trace of white on the ground. Another light snow fell early Wednesday, but the sun came out briefly at mid-morning.

There is little liklihood of immediate relief from the cold. The weatherman said temperatures will average 2 to 4 degrees below normal for the next few days. Colder temperatures are predicted for Thursday. Following a brief warming trend, a return of colder weather is forecast for late Sunday and Monday with snow flurries likely.

The mercury is expected to skid to 10 above Wednesday night.

Cities Planning To Fight Bell Rate Increase

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mapping of strategy for a fight against a proposed Ohio Bell Telephone Co. rate increase has been started by the public utilities committee of the Ohio Municipal League.

The committee, meeting here Tuesday, did not indicate its course of action, pending an announcement by the company on the amount of increase it will seek.

Ohio Bell has notified the Ohio Public Utilities Commission that it will file an application for increased rates early next year. It explained that the amount of increase and the service affected could not be determined until studies now under way are completed.

Members of the Municipal League's committee decided that cities affected should bring up to date all data on telephone rates. The group also voted to meet again as soon as possible after Ohio Bell files its formal request with the Utilities Commission.

The commission granted Ohio Bell a $7,633,750 increase Dec. 30, 1954, following a series of hearings in which the larger Ohio cities protested the rate increase application. The amount granted was $1,259,368 less than Bell sought.

Ohio Bell told the commission in its notification of intention to file a rate increase application that higher rates were needed to stem a decline in earnings.

Vice President L. T. Pendleton said the company needed more revenue because of higher wages and taxes and increased cost of materials and equipment.

U. S. To Ask NATO Members For Nuclear Weapons Plan

LONDON (AP) — The United States will ask its fellow NATO members next week to approve a new plan for Allied consultations on the use of nuclear weapons against aggressors.

Washington also wants to give NATO countries joint control with the United States over the triggering of nuclear missiles within their own borders. But although there would be consultations beforehand, no member nation would have the right to veto American or British use of nuclear weapons based elsewhere.

Responsible sources say these are the key proposals contained in a U. S. memorandum now being circulated among NATO members. The purpose is to reduce the apprehensiveness of the continental NATO countries — especially France—that in war the United States or Bitain might unilaterally launch a nuclear attack which would involve them.

The NATO chiefs of government, meeting in Paris Monday, will be asked to take action on the U. S. plan, said to be supported by Britain.

If the NATO governments agree on a process for rapid consultations, informed sources say, the pattern later may be extended to members of the five-nation Baghdad Pact and the eight-nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Just how the Allies might consult fast enough to make the plan workable was not disclosed. One suggestion was that ambassadors of the NATO countries in key capitals might be organized for discussions in emergencies.

The development of a means of swift and foolproof communication between NATO capitals seemed to be an essential requirement of the plan. Informants did not indicate how this would be assured but said the question is in the hands of military authorities.

The U. S. proposal outlines this plan for joint control of nuclear weapons at European bases:

The United States would deliver intermediate range missiles to continental NATO members that agree to accept them.

Each of these NATO countries would be provided with the missiles and their firing mechanisms and would control the launching apparatus. U. S. units in Europe would retain control of nuclear warheads for the missiles.

If war broke out and the governments of the United States and the country agreed, the U. S. units would immediately deliver the warheads to the European countries missile crews, which already would be trained in using them. They could be fired immediately—but Americans would not pull the trigger.

Science-Hep American Kids Exuberant on Rocket Tests

NEW YORK (AP)—For better or worse, American youngsters are taking the Sputnik situation in their own hands.

All over the country, science-hep kids are turning their youthful exuberance to launch homemade rockets.

Some authorities are not sure it's a good thing.

In Connecticut, state officials have called a meeting to study a deluge of requests for firing rockets.

They will try to decide if amateur launchings help science. If so, they want to know how the young launchers and their neighbors can be protected.

The explosion of a home-made rocket during a chemistry class experiment at Floydda High School in Texas killed the teacher and injured seven students.

Several months go, a young would-be scientist in Albuquerque, N.M., suffered severe injuries to his face and hands when a group in the Albuquerque High School Rocket Club tried to fire a home-made rocket. Authorities said the boy was hurt because he failed to follow the club instructor's directions.

But many of the amateur launchings have been more successful and less hazardous — at least to human beings.

A mouse gave his life for science in Austin, Minn., recently when the Austin Rocket Society, comprised of 10 youths ranging in age from 14 to 17, sent a rocket up 1,642 feet.

Russia's dog-bearingSputnik inspired the teen-agers to secure the mouse to their junior-sized rocket. The mouse traveled at speeds up to 221.5 miles an hour before it crashed to its death.

Now the society is trying to perfect an ejection device to bring another mouse back alive when he rides a new rocket to be launched soon.

With his dad's help, Carl Sheriff, an 11-year-old Los Angeles grammar school student, built a model of Sputnik which circles a model globe. His Sputnik even has a tiny dog, a light and beeper that mimics the radio sounds Sputnik transmits. It's operated by four small motors.

In Grand Haven, Mich., 12-year-old Gary Sherwood and fou chums have received the City Council's permission to launch their rocket with adult supervision.

Two Duncan, Okla., boys have turned their home-made missile over to the Army at Ft. Sill for approval before they attempt a launching. An Army spokesman said the boys will get the go-ahead if the missile seems safe.

'Propaganda' Label Put on 15-Page Note

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower is expected to brush aside a 3,000-word letter from Soviet Premier Bulganin. The Russians called the letter "very important;" American officials dismissed it as propaganda.

The message was reported to renew old Soviet proposals to end nuclear bomb tests and to hold a high-level East-West conference to outlaw war.

About noon today, the White House said there would be "no comment at this time" on the 15-page missive, but did nothing to erase the propaganda label.

Associate press secretary Anne Wheaton said she expected that Secretary of State Dulles, who conferred with Eisenhower during the morning, would make any U.S. reply there might be.

Asked if she thought the Russian move was an attempt to "throw a monkey wrench" into the forthcoming NATO meeting, Mrs. Wheaton replied:

"I think it speaks for itself."

* * *

SOVIET AMBASSADOR Georgi Zarubin called the letter "very important" when he talked to reporters after delivering it. But American officials said it was designed to undercut the NATO meeting and to block any attempt to arm America's European allies with nuclear-tipped missiles.

The State Department withheld formal comment until the letter could be translated by experts. These were its main proposals:

1. A halt after Jan. 1 to all nuclear bomb testing. The Western Allies already have rejected this, saying it fails to get at the core of the problem: a ban on A-bomb and H-bomb production with safeguards to prevent cheating. Besides, the Allies want to keep testing for a "clean" H-bomb and small tactical A-bombs.

2. An East-West "conference of leaders" to outlaw war. This, too, has been turned down. The Allies' argument is that showy summit conferences or foreign ministers meetings never get down to brass tacks.

3. A prohibition on producing or stockpiling nuclear weapons in Communist Poland and East and West Germany. This idea was first put forward by Poland at the United Nations last Oct. 2. Nothing came of it. Two weeks earlier Russia had threatened to arm its satellites with nuclear weapons if West Germany got them.

4. The usual Soviet pitch about normalizing world relations and increasing East-West trade. Here again the Allies take the position that such generalizations are worthless unless the Soviets are willing to deal with specifics.

Wilmington Residents Face Delay in Getting Money

Unemployment Claim Records Vanish with Stolen Automobile

About 150 Wilmington area residents will have to wait for expected unemployment compensation money as a result of an auto theft at Loudner's Barbecue, CCC Highway west, Tuesday afternoon.

Records of unemployment comsation claims filed at Wilmington Tuesday were in a car stolen from Mrs. Anne Betts, 839 Lincoln Drive, a representative of the local office of the Ohio State Employment Service.

No Fayette County people were affected by the theft of records, Employment Service officials said.

* * *

FRANK SHELDON of Dayton, area supervisor for the Employment Service said that the agency will do "everything possible to expedite payment of these claims," but he also said the theft "will result in a delay" of payment.

Mrs. Betts, owner of the stolen auto, parked the car in the Loudner lot while she went to lunch on her way back from Wilmington about 2:30 p. m. Tuesday.

The car was gone when she came out of the restaurant.

She was bringing the Wilmington records to the Washington C. H. qmployment service office. The state Highway Patrol is investigating and there is a possibility that federal investigation may be called in.

A 1954 Chevrolet sedan, the auto was blue and gray and bore Ohio license 849 KV.

Winter's Coldest Blast Hits Here

Fayette Countians buttoned up their overcoats and stoked up their furnaces Wednesday as the coldest weather of the season moved in on them during the night.

Temperatures dropped from a high of 38 degrees Tuesday to a low of 14 above zero on weather observer Coyt Stookey's government thermometer. With the drop in temperature, came a short blizzard-like snow squall early Tuesday night, but it left only a trace of white on the ground. Another light snow fell early Wednesday, but the sun came out briefly at mid-morning.

There is little liklihood of immediate relief from the cold. The weatherman said temperatures will average 2 to 4 degrees below normal for the next few days. Colder temperatures are predicted for Thursday. Following a brief warming trend, a return of colder weather is forecast for late Sunday and Monday with snow flurries likely.

The mercury is expected to skid to 10 above Wednesday night.

Cities Planning To Fight Bell Rate Increase

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mapping of strategy for a fight against a proposed Ohio Bell Telephone Co. rate increase has been started by the public utilities committee of the Ohio Municipal League.

The committee, meeting here Tuesday, did not indicate its course of action, pending an announcement by the company on the amount of increase it will seek.

Ohio Bell has notified the Ohio Public Utilities Commission that it will file an application for increased rates early next year. It explained that the amount of increase and the service affected could not be determined until studies now under way are completed.

Members of the Municipal League's committee decided that cities affected should bring up to date all data on telephone rates. The group also voted to meet again as soon as possible after Ohio Bell files its formal request with the Utilities Commission.

The commission granted Ohio Bell a $7,633,750 increase Dec. 30, 1954, following a series of hearings in which the larger Ohio cities protested the rate increase application. The amount granted was $1,259,368 less than Bell sought.

Ohio Bell told the commission in its notification of intention to file a rate increase application that higher rates were needed to stem a decline in earnings.

Vice President L. T. Pendleton said the company needed more revenue because of higher wages and taxes and increased cost of materials and equipment.

U. S. To Ask NATO Members For Nuclear Weapons Plan

LONDON (AP) — The United States will ask its fellow NATO members next week to approve a new plan for Allied consultations on the use of nuclear weapons against aggressors.

Washington also wants to give NATO countries joint control with the United States over the triggering of nuclear missiles within their own borders. But although there would be consultations beforehand, no member nation would have the right to veto American or British use of nuclear weapons based elsewhere.

Responsible sources say these are the key proposals contained in a U. S. memorandum now being circulated among NATO members. The purpose is to reduce the apprehensiveness of the continental NATO countries — especially France—that in war the United States or Bitain might unilaterally launch a nuclear attack which would involve them.

The NATO chiefs of government, meeting in Paris Monday, will be asked to take action on the U. S. plan, said to be supported by Britain.

If the NATO governments agree on a process for rapid consultations, informed sources say, the pattern later may be extended to members of the five-nation Baghdad Pact and the eight-nation Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Just how the Allies might consult fast enough to make the plan workable was not disclosed. One suggestion was that ambassadors of the NATO countries in key capitals might be organized for discussions in emergencies.

The development of a means of swift and foolproof communication between NATO capitals seemed to be an essential requirement of the plan. Informants did not indicate how this would be assured but said the question is in the hands of military authorities.

The U. S. proposal outlines this plan for joint control of nuclear weapons at European bases:

The United States would deliver intermediate range missiles to continental NATO members that agree to accept them.

Each of these NATO countries would be provided with the missiles and their firing mechanisms and would control the launching apparatus. U. S. units in Europe would retain control of nuclear warheads for the missiles.

If war broke out and the governments of the United States and the country agreed, the U. S. units would immediately deliver the warheads to the European countries missile crews, which already would be trained in using them. They could be fired immediately—but Americans would not pull the trigger.

Science-Hep American Kids Exuberant on Rocket Tests

NEW YORK (AP)—For better or worse, American youngsters are taking the Sputnik situation in their own hands.

All over the country, science-hep kids are turning their youthful exuberance to launch homemade rockets.

Some authorities are not sure it's a good thing.

In Connecticut, state officials have called a meeting to study a deluge of requests for firing rockets.

They will try to decide if amateur launchings help science. If so, they want to know how the young launchers and their neighbors can be protected.

The explosion of a home-made rocket during a chemistry class experiment at Floydda High School in Texas killed the teacher and injured seven students.

Several months go, a young would-be scientist in Albuquerque, N.M., suffered severe injuries to his face and hands when a group in the Albuquerque High School Rocket Club tried to fire a home-made rocket. Authorities said the boy was hurt because he failed to follow the club instructor's directions.

But many of the amateur launchings have been more successful and less hazardous — at least to human beings.

A mouse gave his life for science in Austin, Minn., recently when the Austin Rocket Society, comprised of 10 youths ranging in age from 14 to 17, sent a rocket up 1,642 feet.

Russia's dog-bearingSputnik inspired the teen-agers to secure the mouse to their junior-sized rocket. The mouse traveled at speeds up to 221.5 miles an hour before it crashed to its death.

Now the society is trying to perfect an ejection device to bring another mouse back alive when he rides a new rocket to be launched soon.

With his dad's help, Carl Sheriff, an 11-year-old Los Angeles grammar school student, built a model of Sputnik which circles a model globe. His Sputnik even has a tiny dog, a light and beeper that mimics the radio sounds Sputnik transmits. It's operated by four small motors.

In Grand Haven, Mich., 12-year-old Gary Sherwood and fou chums have received the City Council's permission to launch their rocket with adult supervision.

Two Duncan, Okla., boys have turned their home-made missile over to the Army at Ft. Sill for approval before they attempt a launching. An Army spokesman said the boys will get the go-ahead if the missile seems safe.

Prisoners Hear Talk During Sleep

VISALIA, Calif. (AP)—When some of the prisoners at Tulare County's Woodland Road Camp go to bed at night their pillows seem to talk to them.

It goes on for 10 minutes.

"I believe what we are doing is unique in the annals of penology," says John Locke, Tulare County public defender.

A tape recording does the talking, through an earphone next to a prisoner's pillow.

Amish Slaying Trial Drawing Near Its End

MILLERSBURG (AP)—The prosecution, nearing the end of its case, indicated it will give its final arguments today in the first degree murder trial of Cleo Eugene Peters. He is charged with slaying Paul Coblentz, 25, an Amish farmer.

Peters, 19, of Muscatine, Iowa, and Michael Dumoulin, 20, of Wooster, are accused of slaying Coblentz during a robbery at his farm home near Mount Hope, July 18. Dumoulin will stand trial in January.

The prosecution called its last witness Tuesday—Coblentz' wife, Dora.

Prosecutor James E. Estill asked her if any strangers had come to her home the night of July 18. Her eyes brimmed with tears and visibly nervous, she turned to look at Peters and answered: "Yes."

She testified that a dog's barking awakened her baby and when she entered the kitchen with her baby in her arms a blond stranger with a handkerchief masking his face was standing there.

Benson Urging New Agency To Guide Lower Price Props

CHICAGO (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson suggested today creation of a bipartisan commission to help him administer a lower level of farm price supports he is proposing.

In an address to the 39th annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the secretary said the administration will ask Congress for discretionary authority to set supports for designated basic crops between 60 and 90 per cent of parity.

These crops are corn, wheat, cotton, rice and peanuts. Under the present flexible price support law, which the administration promoted in 1954, supports ranged between 75 and 90 per cent of parity.

Parity is the standard for measuring farm prices declared to be fair to farmers in relation to prices charged them.

Earlier this year Benson had proposed a discretionary range from 0 to 90 per cent for these crops.

Benson told the federation that the present supports encourage excess production, tend to keep the crops non-competitive in markets and to pile u costly surpluses—all to the detriment of growers.

* * *

"IF CONGRESS feels that such discretionary authority should not be lodged in the hands of one person, a bipartisan commission might be appointed to assist the secretary of agriculture in the determination of price support levels," he said.

"I seek no additional authority for myself. My sole aim is to promote the welfare of farm people."

The federation appeared likely to adopt resolutions, which in principle, would endorse the Benson philosophy that the government's role in regulating farm prices in controlling production should be reduced gradually.

Benson said other proposals the administration plans to lay before Congress include one which "would have the overall effect of giving farmers more freedom in deciding what crops they should grow and market." He did not elaborate.

Jury in Lima Still Ponders Forsythe Case

LIMA (AP) — Failing to reach agreement after four hours and 35 minutes Tuesday night, the jury for the Ralph K. Forsythe trial resumed deliberation today.

Forsythe is charged with first degree murder in the supposed slaying of Charles Conner. No body has ever been found.

Conner, a 37-year-old Lima paint company foreman, was allegedly shot Aug. 10 at Forsythe's home. Forsythe contends he fired only a blank cartridge at Conner.

Still fresh in the minds of the jury of 10 men and two women was a grave warning from Ernest Navarre, chief defense counsel.

"If Forsythe is convicted of murder, Navarre said, "I wonder how often in the future you'll think 'I wonder if Conner is dead.' "

And, from Prosecutor Anthony J. Bowers, the jury had a picture of Forsythe as a "vice king" and a "pathological liar who figured he could get away with murder."

Navarre charged that police and prosecution "do not have a body. They have no proof of death. No proof of a bullet being fired."

Instead, he said, they have "two boozehounds" who say they thought Conner was dead when they ran from the Forsythe kitchen that August night.

This was reference to two of the state's three "eyewitnesses" who told of the shooting climaxing a long day of drinking. A third witness was willing to say only, "I thought I saw blood."

Unemployment In Ohio Soars Over '56 Total

COLUMBUS (AP) — Heavy unemployment in Ohio's steel industry areas has sent the number of Ohioans drawing jobless benefits soaring above the figure for a year ago, the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation says.

According to a BUC report Tuesday, 92,692 Ohioans are collecting continuing claims, more than double the 46,159 average in December, 1956.

Areas that are largely dependent on the steel industry and related enterprises appear to be hardest hit. In Youngstown the total number of continuing compensation claims recorded was 4,602 as of last Saturday. A year ago the figure was 893.

Other big jumps were recorded in Warren with 2,851 this December compared with 773 last year; Cleveland, 17,502 against 8,206; Canton (including Alliance and Massillon), 4,908 against 1,525 and Toledo, 5,180 against 2,587.

Other metropolitan areas showing more moderate increases are Cincinnati, 10,873 this year against 6,064 last year; Columbus, 4,760 against 2,928 and Akron, 2,681 against 2,056.

The 92,692 figure covers only those who have been collecting benefits for one week or more. It does not cover those who have exhausted their benefits and still have not found new jobs.

Dayton Policeman Pink Cheeked after 'Misunderstanding'

DAYTON (AP)—Patrolman Fred Wade of Dayton has a pink cheek today, all because of a misunderstanding across the complaint counter.

A woman appeared at the counter, saying she felt someone was threatening her and wanted the police to do something about it.

Patrolman Wade explained: "If someone says he'll hit you, we can't do anything about it, but if someone actually hits you . . . ." At that point, the woman reached across the counter and smacked Wade in the face, saying "now you can help me."

When the confusion died down, the woman explained that she didn't hear well. What she thought she heard was the policeman telling her to hit him.

Prisoners Hear Talk During Sleep

VISALIA, Calif. (AP)—When some of the prisoners at Tulare County's Woodland Road Camp go to bed at night their pillows seem to talk to them.

"You will have faith in yourself, faith in others and faith in the essential decency of mankind; you will know your faults and you shall overcome them; you can and will solve life's problems."

It goes on for 10 minutes.

"I believe what we are doing is unique in the annals of penology," says John Locke, Tulare County public defender.

Amish Slaying Trial Drawing Near Its End

MILLERSBURG (AP)—The prosecution, nearing the end of its case, indicated it will give its final arguments today in the first degree murder trial of Cleo Eugene Peters. He is charged with slaying Paul Coblentz, 25, an Amish farmer.

Peters, 19, of Muscatine, Iowa, and Michael Dumoulin, 20, of Wooster, are accused of slaying Coblentz during a robbery at his farm home near Mount Hope, July 18. Dumoulin will stand trial in January.

The prosecution called its last witness Tuesday—Coblentz' wife, Dora.

Prosecutor James E. Estill asked her if any strangers had come to her home the night of July 18. Her eyes brimmed with tears and visibly nervous, she turned to look at Peters and answered: "Yes."

She testified that a dog's barking awakened her baby and when she entered the kitchen with her baby in her arms a blond stranger with a handkerchief masking his face was standing there.

Benson Urging New Agency To Guide Lower Price Props

CHICAGO (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson suggested today creation of a bipartisan commission to help him administer a lower level of farm price supports he is proposing.

In an address to the 39th annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the secretary said the administration will ask Congress for discretionary authority to set supports for designated basic crops between 60 and 90 per cent of parity.

These crops are corn, wheat, cotton, rice and peanuts. Under the present flexible price support law, which the administration promoted in 1954, supports ranged between 75 and 90 per cent of parity.

Parity is the standard for measuring farm prices declared to be fair to farmers in relation to prices charged them.

Earlier this year Benson had proposed a discretionary range from 0 to 90 per cent for these crops.

Benson told the federation that the present supports encourage excess production, tend to keep the crops non-competitive in markets and to pile u costly surpluses—all to the detriment of growers.

* * *

"IF CONGRESS feels that such discretionary authority should not be lodged in the hands of one person, a bipartisan commission might be appointed to assist the secretary of agriculture in the determination of price support levels," he said.

"I seek no additional authority for myself. My sole aim is to promote the welfare of farm people."

The federation appeared likely to adopt resolutions, which in principle, would endorse the Benson philosophy that the government's role in regulating farm prices in controlling production should be reduced gradually.

Benson said other proposals the administration plans to lay before Congress include one which "would have the overall effect of giving farmers more freedom in deciding what crops they should grow and market." He did not elaborate.

Jury in Lima Still Ponders Forsythe Case

LIMA (AP) — Failing to reach agreement after four hours and 35 minutes Tuesday night, the jury for the Ralph K. Forsythe trial resumed deliberation today.

Forsythe is charged with first degree murder in the supposed slaying of Charles Conner. No body has ever been found.

Conner, a 37-year-old Lima paint company foreman, was allegedly shot Aug. 10 at Forsythe's home. Forsythe contends he fired only a blank cartridge at Conner.

Still fresh in the minds of the jury of 10 men and two women was a grave warning from Ernest Navarre, chief defense counsel.

"If Forsythe is convicted of murder, Navarre said, "I wonder how often in the future you'll think 'I wonder if Conner is dead.' "

And, from Prosecutor Anthony J. Bowers, the jury had a picture of Forsythe as a "vice king" and a "pathological liar who figured he could get away with murder."

Navarre charged that police and prosecution "do not have a body. They have no proof of death. No proof of a bullet being fired."

Instead, he said, they have "two boozehounds" who say they thought Conner was dead when they ran from the Forsythe kitchen that August night.

This was reference to two of the state's three "eyewitnesses" who told of the shooting climaxing a long day of drinking. A third witness was willing to say only, "I thought I saw blood."

Unemployment In Ohio Soars Over '56 Total

COLUMBUS (AP) — Heavy unemployment in Ohio's steel industry areas has sent the number of Ohioans drawing jobless benefits soaring above the figure for a year ago, the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation says.

According to a BUC report Tuesday, 92,692 Ohioans are collecting continuing claims, more than double the 46,159 average in December, 1956.

Areas that are largely dependent on the steel industry and related enterprises appear to be hardest hit. In Youngstown the total number of continuing compensation claims recorded was 4,602 as of last Saturday. A year ago the figure was 893.

Other big jumps were recorded in Warren with 2,851 this December compared with 773 last year; Cleveland, 17,502 against 8,206; Canton (including Alliance and Massillon), 4,908 against 1,525 and Toledo, 5,180 against 2,587.

Other metropolitan areas showing more moderate increases are Cincinnati, 10,873 this year against 6,064 last year; Columbus, 4,760 against 2,928 and Akron, 2,681 against 2,056.

The 92,692 figure covers only those who have been collecting benefits for one week or more. It does not cover those who have exhausted their benefits and still have not found new jobs.

Dayton Policeman Pink Cheeked after 'Misunderstanding'

DAYTON (AP)—Patrolman Fred Wade of Dayton has a pink cheek today, all because of a misunderstanding across the complaint counter.

A woman appeared at the counter, saying she felt someone was threatening her and wanted the police to do something about it.

Patrolman Wade explained: "If someone says he'll hit you, we can't do anything about it, but if someone actually hits you . . . ." At that point, the woman reached across the counter and smacked Wade in the face, saying "now you can help me."

When the confusion died down, the woman explained that she didn't hear well. What she thought she heard was the policeman telling her to hit him.

Defense and Taxes Big Issues Now

We might as well face it. There is not only little possibility of taxes being reduced, as was the talk of both major political parties not long ago, but it is more than likely federal taxes will go higher, unless some huge cuts are made in present appropriations.

Such cuts seem improbable with an election year coming up and the average congressman in such a year does not feel like taking a stand against the pressure groups in his district which are seeking more and more federal aid.

While now and then there still may be some talk of a tax cut, the chances of it coming to pass have been greatly altered by the fears aroused in the nation's defense situation.

While there are many wise heads, including some scientists who have declared that we cannot catch up on the Russians in progress on missiles and satellites by going on a huge increased spending spree, we can count on the army of bureaucrats around Washington D. C. using all their energy in pushing such a program. It helps insure their jobs and influence.

It seems almost inevitable that national defense spending will rise somewhat in the fiscal year for which the administration is now preparing its budget.

There is always the necessity of trying to get more than we are getting for each defense dollar, but when every dollar has been squeezed dry, this may still leave some of our additional requirements unfinanced.

We cannot neglect our decisive nuclear experiments, and the resulting stockpile of weapons. We may need more jet bombers and fighters. We have to step up missile research and get effective missiles into production. We must continue to maintain a far - flung defensive establishment at many outposts around the world.

To imagine that, in the light of Russia's sputniks and missiles, this will cost us less money next year than it does now, is to indulge in wishful fancy. All the signs point the other way.

Furthermore, the business outlook for 1958 may not be quite as cheerful as was thought some months back. If the economy tails off a little, tax revenues will not come up to the original expectations and the prospect of having a federal surplus will diminish.

At worst the situation might call for a decision either to increase taxes or go in for some deficit financing which would boost the public debt. At best, it would seem to call for leaving taxes as they are, at least for another year or so.

The administration may not want to say so, but that appears to be the logic of its present position.

Even Paradise Has a Price

By Ed Creagh
(For Hal Boyle)

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Leaves from a sun-tarned notebook:

The Florida land boom has leaped the Gulf Stream and landed in the Bahamas.

A tidal flood of tourists and foreign investment capital has created the greatest wave of prosperity in these islands since Christopher Columbus discovered them in 1492.

The Bahamas have known booms before—from pirate raids, Civil War blockade running, rum runners during Prohibition, and from sponge fishing. But never a boom such as this one.

Nine hotels have been built here in the last four years. Commercial land values in Nassau, the capital, have trebled in the last six years. Property along Bay Street, the main business thoroughfare, now sells for about $8,000 a front foot.

Once merely a playground for wealthy sportsmen and international society, the islands have become a resort popular with the great middle class. Nassau looks forward, with some misgivings, it must be admitted, to becoming something of a Miami Beach or Atlantic City with a British accent.

The islands emerged from World War II in bad shape. They had no major industries, much unemployment.

The colony took stock of itself. What did it really have to sell? Nothing but a wonderful climate, fine fishing, and certain tax advantages. It has no income tax, no death tax on real estate, and only a four per cent inheritance tax on personal property.

The Nassau Development Board was formed to exploit these attractions, and it has done its task well. Only 32,000 tourists came here in 1949. This year the figure will be about 195,000.

Not all who come are vacationing tourists, anxious to buy low-priced French perfumes and gin at $2 a fifth. Some are wealthy American, English, and European businessmen who have sunk millions of dollars in resort ventures which they can leave, tax free, to their heirs. A number of corporations, including several U. S. firms attracted by the special tax advantages, have centered their overseas operations here.

The population of the colony has spurted from 68,846 in 1943 to about 90,000 today.

But growth has its price, and the price here is the same that prosperity has exacted in other countries—a housing shortage, a growing traffic problem, and a rising cost of living.

"I was renting a three-bedroom furnished house for $196 a month," grumbled a resident, "and one of your American steel firms bought it for $56,000 for one of its executives. Now I have to find a new place to live."

Said a local businessman:

"The Americans are bringing in high-priced employes and thereby forcing up our own wage scales. We used to be able to hire a good secretary for $42 a week. Now even a beginner wants $70."

Yes, prosperity has a price, even in an island paradise. But they still like the Yankee dollars here, and all they want is more and more of them.

What Do You Say?

By George Sokolsky

We were having a talk the other day on the subject of how to conduct propaganda in Europe, Asia and Africa in the interest of the United States.

For up to now, most of our efforts have failed.

The evidence of failure lies in the rise of neutralism, the success of Soviet propaganda among the smaller nations of the world, the brilliant conception of a Sputnik as a propaganda device, the drawing of delegations of youth from all countries to Moscow.

The United States has not been able to equal this propaganda or to counteract it. Whatever money is spent by the USIA or any other United States agency of information has thus far come up with only one good idea during the past four or five years, namely, the supermarket exhibits in various cities in Europe.

How permanently such exhibits affect public opinion in favor of the United States it is not possible to say.

The really successful job that the Russians have done on us has been to give a big twist to the truth, namely, they have succeeded in giving the impression that we favor war and that they favor peace.

Every day, the Russian, Chinese, Arab, and other radios blare accusations against the United States as the nation that wants war while Khrushchev is painted as a sort of cherubic clown, generally with a glass of liquor in hand, whose only ambition is to establish a permanent peace.

Peace is what the entire world desires. War only means death. The Russians, for instance, test bombs all the time. It is only when the United States tests a bomb that a tremendous howl goes up about the terriors of the fall-out and the splitting of the earth.

If the end result of the hydrogen bomb is so terrible, why do not the Russians stop testing hydrogen bombs? Nobody asks them such a question and they do not answer.

They only accuse the United States of testing and of planning to use bombs to exterminate the human race.

And so successful has been the Russian propaganda that even in such countries as Great Britain, France and Canada, large elements of the population believe the Russians in preference to the United States; even anti-Communist elements in those countries and in the United States are beginning to doubt anything that is said about Soviet Russia that is not favorable to the Russians.

I recently heard a distinguished American say of Soviet Russia, "A nation wiped out 40 years ago," which, of course, is not true. Russia was not wiped out 40 years ago. There was little actual fighting on Russian soil in World War I.

I recall, 40 years ago, I traveled from Petrograd, where food was scarce, to Harbin in Manchuria. As soon as we left Petrograd, food became plentiful. As our train stopped in city after city, we ate very well.

True, the people were worried and frightened but they were pleased that they had been taken out of the war which they had come to hate. Everywhere I found courageous people who expected that in a few months order would be restored.

By order, however, they did not mean anything concrete. They did not want the Czar. They did not want Lenin and Trotzky.

They did not want Kerensky.

They did not know what they wanted. It was precisely this negative attitude that gave Lenin his strength. He moved in upon a bewildered people and gave them the Leninist concept of Marxism, a way of life.

In 1955, the United States issued in France a pamphlet entitled "L' Economie Americaine" which is the most unbelievable document ever produced. It is supposed to describe American capitalism. Apparently the mid-Twentieth Century form of capitalism in the United States is to be measured by the widespread ownership of the stock of companies. In what manner is this different from any other period? Also what is the objection to small or family businesses?

Are we to be ashamed of the great material advances made by American capitalism up to 1933 or did the world begin in that year? How do we expect Europeans to respect us when our propaganda is based on the statement that the capitalism that Marx described in 1848 is a far cry from the capitalism enjoyed in the United States today? Is that true?

JOE FRISCO tells about the clean-up man on a prison baseball team who hit a rival pitcher's fast ball a country mile. He tore around first, zipped past second, rounded third and headed for home—but they finally nailed him between third base and—the Mexican border.

Gene Sherman thinks the most tactful man in Los Angeles is the one who had to fire a malingerer for destroying the morale of the office force. "My boy," was the way the tactful boss did it, "I don't know how we're ever going to get along without you here, but beginning Monday morning, we're going to try."

What Is Right Age For Nursery School?

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Time and again I have heard parents say: "When our Johnnie is old enough, we're going to send him to nursery school."

Far too often, I'm afraid, this determination to send a preschool age youngster off to a nursery school is simply a desire to get him out of the house and out of the way. Few will admit it, I realize that. But in many families I suspect this is really the case.

Actually, nursery schools have a great value in helping youngsters eventually to become good citizens. They do not, however, serve as a substitute for the home and family. They cannot take over the duties or responsibilities of the parents.

Just how much value a nursery school will have for any specific child depends upon how the school is run, the attitude of the teachers and parents, and the age of the child.

As a rule, it would be inadvisable to send a child of the age of 2 to nursery school and expect good results. At this tender age, a youngster needs the help and constant love of his mother if that is at all possible.

His limited vocabulary makes it just about impossible for him to make all his needs and wants known. Then too, at the age of 2 he won't want to share his possessions with other children. This as you can easily see, might lead to trouble with other kids at the school.

Even at the age of 2½, the demands of a nursery school generally are too much for a child of this age to cope with. He couldn't cooperate to the degree that is necessary for a school to be harmonious.

After the age of 3, a majority of children are ready for nursery school. By this time a youngster's vocabulary generally has advanced so that he can assert himself.

Also, whether you mothers like it or not, by this age your child is becoming less dependent upon you. He is ready to play with other children and probably wants a chance to test his strength in physical endeavors.

Smallest TV Set Has No Picture Tube

DALLAS (AP)—Sara Suwal, blind for 20 years, has the smallest television set in town.

For obvious reasons, it has no picture tube. Yet Miss Suwal uses it instead of a radio.

The set is actually a small cabinet about the size of a table model radio, but its dial has numbers for TV channels. Plugged in, it picks up the audio portion of television programs.

The set is built by the American Foundation for the Blind. Miss Suwal is employed by the Texas Commission for the Blind.

The Nation Today

James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sherman Adams must have supersensitive ears. Seems he can sit in Washington and hear people talking to him in St. Louis hours before he gets there to listen to them.

This really isn't as puzzling as it sounds. All you have to do is read the remarkable speech he delivered in St. louis this week.

Adams' boss is President Eisenhower, who once jokingly called him "the boss." The white-haired, 58-year-old Adams is Eisenhower's top White House assistant. But he's a lot more than that title suggests.

He's come to be the man to see if you want something from the President. He's credited with being one of the most influential men in the country. It has even been suggested he has run the country during Eisenhower's illnesses.

Talk of this kind has spread so much that Adams has been trying to knock it down.

It began after the President's 1955 heart attack, picked up speed after Eisenhower's 1956 intestinal operation, and was revived after the President's mild stroke 16 days ago.

Since last spring Adams has been making speeches intended to play down his own importance and play up the President's leadership, physical condition and awareness of what's going on.

But this week Adams outdid all his past efforts.

He made a speech before Republicans in St. Louis Monday night. The theme was the same: the President's physical strength, his leadership, the alertness of his mind.

"In short," Adams told his Republican listeners who have had trouble whipping Democrats in Missouri, "the President is back in the saddle."

Then he said: "If that message gives you a lift, I have heard some news here that gives me a lift. This news is being made here. . . . Here are signs of some real political activity—Republican activity.

"Here I feel a new, invigorating spirit . . . All of this I am going to report to our President as soon as I get back to Washington. I assure you that this news will give him, as it has me, a great lift."

This is what made the speech remarkable:

Adams wrote it in Washington. The passage about getting a lift from the news he heard in Missouri was in the mimeographed copies handed to newsmen at the White House Monday morning before he left for the West to deliver the speech.

He didn't explain how, while writing the speech here, he could hear what people in St. Louis were telling him hours later, or why he didn't interrupt his speech writing and run and tell the President what he had just heard.

Toledo Santa Claus Dismays Children

TOLEDO (AP)—To the dismay of several youngsters at the scene, a Santa Claus came reeling out of a shopping area here and flopped into the side of a passing auto.

The Santa, 45-year-old James Haines, was taken to Toledo Hospital with head and back injuries.

Municipal Judge Homer A. Ramey, continued charges of being drunk and disorderly against the Santa until Thursday.

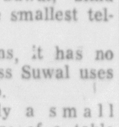

Noting that Haines still was in the hospital, Ramey said that "maybe we can get him in and out of jail before Christmas."

Defense and Taxes Big Issues Now

We might as well face it. There is not only little possibility of taxes being reduced, as was the talk of both major political parties not long ago, but it is more than likely federal taxes will go higher, unless some huge cuts are made in present appropriations.

Such cuts seem improbabl, with an election year coming up and the average congressman in such a year does not feel like taking a stand against the pressure groups in his district which are seeking more and more federal aid.

While now and then there still may be some talk of a tax cut, the chances of it coming to pass have been greatly altered by the fears aroused in the nation's defense situation.

While there are many wise heads, including some scientists who have declared that we cannot catch up on the Russians in progress on missiles and satellites by going on a huge increased spending spree, we can count on the army of bureaucrats around Washington D. C. using all their energy in pushing such a program. It helps insure their jobs and influence.

It seems almost inevitable that national defense spending will rise somewhat in the fiscal year for which the administration is now preparing its budget.

There is always the necessity of trying to get more than we are getting for each defense dollar, but when every dollar has been squeezed dry, this may still leave some of our additional requirements unfinanced.

We cannot neglect our decisive nuclear experiments, and the resulting stockpile of weapons. We may need more jet bombers and fighters. We have to step up missile research and get effective missiles into production. We must continue to maintain a far - flung defensive establishment at many outposts around the world.

To imagine that, in the light of Russia's sputniks and missiles, this will cost us less money next year than it does now, is to indulge in wishful fancy. All the signs point the other way.

Furthermore, the business outlook for 1958 may not be quite as cheerful as was thought some months back. If the economy tails off a little, tax revenues will not come up to the original expectations and the prospect of having a federal surplus will diminish.

At worst the situation might call for a decision either to increase taxes or go in for some deficit financing which would boost the public debt. At best, it would seem to call for leaving taxes as they are, at least for another year or so.

The administration may not want to say so, but that appears to be the logic of its present position.

Even Paradise Has a Price

By Ed Creagh
(For Hal Boyle)

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Leaves from a sun-tarned notebook:

The Florida land boom has leaped the Gulf Stream and landed in the Bahamas.

A tidal flood of tourists and foreign investment capital has created the greatest wave of prosperity in these islands since Christopher Columbus discovered them in 1492.

The Bahamas have known booms before—from pirate raids, Civil War blockade running, rum runners during Prohibition, and from sponge fishing. But never a boom such as this one.

Nine hotels have been built here in the last four years. Commercial land values in Nassau, the capital, have trebled in the last six years. Property along Bay Street, the main business thoroughfare, now sells for about $8,000 a front foot.

Once merely a playground for wealthy sportsmen and international society, the islands have become a resort popular with the great middle class. Nassau looks forward, with some misgivings, it must be admitted, to becoming something of a Miami Beach or Atlantic City with a British accent.

The islands emerged from World War II in bad shape. They had no major industries, much unemployment.

The colony took stock of itself. What did it really have to sell? Nothing but a wonderful climate, fine fishing, and certain tax advantages. It has no income tax, no death tax on real estate, and only a four per cent inheritance tax on personal property.

The Nassau Development Board was formed to exploit these attractions, and it has done its task well. Only 32,000 tourists came here in 1949. This year the figure will be about 195,000.

Not all who come are vacationing tourists, anxious to buy low-priced French perfumes and gin at $2 a fifth. Some are wealthy American, English, and European businessmen who have sunk millions of dollars in resort ventures which they can leave, tax free, to their heirs. A number of corporations, including several U. S. firms attracted by the special tax advantages, have centered their overseas operations here.

The population of the colony has spurted from 68,846 in 1943 to about 90,000 today.

But growth has its price, and the price here is the same that prosperity has exacted in other countries—a housing shortage, a growing traffic problem, and a rising cost of living.

"I was renting a three-bedroom furnished house for $196 a month," grumbled a resident, "and one of your American steel firms bought it for $56,000 for one of its executives. Now I have to find a new place to live."

Said a local businessman:

"The Americans are bringing in high-priced employes and thereby forcing up our own wage scales. We used to be able to hire a good secretary for $42 a week. Now even a beginner wants $70."

Yes, prosperity has a price, even in an island paradise. But they still like the Yankee dollars here, and all they want is more and more of them.

What Do You Say?

By George Sokolsky

We were having a talk the other day on the subject of how to conduct propaganda in Europe, Asia and Africa in the interest of the United States.

For up to now, most of our efforts have failed.

The evidence of failure lies in the rise of neutralism, the success of Soviet propaganda among the smaller nations of the world, the brilliant conception of a Sputnik as a propaganda device, the drawing of delegations of youth from all countries to Moscow.

The United States has not been able to equal this propaganda or to counteract it. Whatever money is spent by the USIA or any other United States agency of information has thus far come up with only one good idea during the past four or five years, namely, the supermarket exhibits in various cities in Europe.

How permanently such exhibits affect public opinion in favor of the United States it is not possible to say.

The really successful job that the Russians have done on us has been to give a big twist to the truth, namely, they have succeeded in giving the impression that we favor war and that they favor peace.

Every day, the Russian, Chinese, Arab, and other radios blare accusations against the United States as the nation that wants war while Khrushchev is painted as a sort of cherubic clown, generally with a glass of liquor in hand, whose only ambition is to establish a permanent peace.

Peace is what the entire world desires. War only means death. The Russians, for instance, test bombs all the time. It is only when the United States tests a bomb that a tremendous howl goes up about the terriors of the fall-out and the splitting of the earth.

If the end result of the hydrogen bomb is so terrible, why do not the Russians stop testing hydrogen bombs? Nobody asks them such a question and they do not answer.

They only accuse the United States of testing and of planning to use bombs to exterminate the human race.

And so successful has been the Russian propaganda that even in such countries as Great Britain, France and Canada, large elements of the population believe the Russians in preference to the United States; even anti-Communist elements in those countries and in the United States are beginning to doubt anything that is said about Soviet Russia that is not favorable to the Russians.

I recently heard a distinguished American say of Soviet Russia, "A nation wiped out 40 years ago," which, of course, is not true. Russia was not wiped out 40 years ago. There was little actual fighting on Russian soil in World War I.

I recall, 40 years ago, I traveled from Petrograd, where food was scarce, to Harbin in Manchuria. As soon as we left Petrograd, food became plentiful. As our train stopped in city after city, we ate very well.

True, the people were worried and frightened but they were pleased that they had been taken out of the war which they had come to hate. Everywhere I found courageous people who expected that in a few months order would be restored.

By order, however, they did not mean anything concrete. They did not want the Czar. They did not want Lenin and Trotzky.

They did not want Kerensky.

They did not know what they wanted. It was precisely this negative attitude that gave Lenin his strength. He moved in upon a bewildered people and gave them the Leninist concept of Marxism, a way of life.

In 1955, the United States issued in France a pamphlet entitled "L' Economie Americaine" which is the most unbelievable document ever produced. It is supposed to describe American capitalism. Apparently the mid-Twentieth Century form of capitalism in the United States is to be measured by the widespread ownership of the stock of companies. In what manner is this different from any other period? Also what is the objection to small or family businesses?

Are we to be ashamed of the great material advances made by American capitalism up to 1933 or did the world begin in that year? How do we expect Europeans to respect us when our propaganda is based on the statement that the capitalism that Marx described in 1848 is a far cry from the capitalism enjoyed in the United States today? Is that true?

What Is Right Age For Nursery School?

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Time and again I have heard parents say: "When our Johnnie is old enough, we're going to send him to nursery school."

Far too often, I'm afraid, this determination to send a preschool age youngster off to a nursery school is simply a desire to get him out of the house and out of the way. Few will admit it, I realize that. But in many families I suspect this is really the case.

Actually, nursery schools have a great value in helping youngsters eventually to become good citizens. They do not, however, serve as a substitute for the home and family. They cannot take over the duties or responsibilities of the parents.

Just how much value a nursery school will have for any specific child depends upon how the school is run, the attitude of the teachers and parents, and the age of the child.

As a rule, it would be inadvisable to send a child of the age of 2 to nursery school and expect good results. At this tender age, a youngster needs the help and constant love of his mother if that is at all possible.

His limited vocabulary makes it just about impossible for him to make all his needs and wants known. Then too, at the age of 2 he won't want to share his possessions with other children. This as you can easily see, might lead to trouble with other kids at the school.

Even at the age of 2½, the demands of a nursery school generally are too much for a child of this age to cope with. He couldn't cooperate to the degree that is necessary for a school to be harmonious.

After the age of 3, a majority of children are ready for nursery school. By this time a youngster's vocabulary generally has advanced so that he can assert himself.

Also, whether you mothers like it or not, by this age your child is becoming less dependent upon you. He is ready to play with other children and probably wants a chance to test his strength in physical endeavors.

Smallest TV Set Has No Picture Tube

DALLAS (AP)—Sara Suwal, blind for 20 years, has the smallest television set in town.

For obvious reasons, it has no picture tube. Yet Miss Suwal uses it instead of a radio.

The set is actually a small cabinet about the size of a table model radio, but its dial has numbers for TV channels. Plugged in, it picks up the audio portion of television programs.

The set is built by the American Foundation for the Blind. Miss Suwal is employed by the Texas Commission for the Blind.

The Nation Today

James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sherman Adams must have supersensitive ears. Seems he can sit in Washington and hear people talking to him in St. Louis hours before he gets there to listen to them.

This really isn't as puzzling as it sounds. All you have to do is read the remarkable speech he delivered in St. louis this week.

Adams' boss is President Eisenhower, who once jokingly called him "the boss." The white-haired, 58-year-old Adams is Eisenhower's top White House assistant. But he's a lot more than that title suggests.

He's come to be the man to see if you want something from the President. He's credited with being one of the most influential men in the country. It has even been suggested he has run the country during Eisenhower's illnesses.

Talk of this kind has spread so much that Adams has been trying to knock it down.

It began after the President's 1955 heart attack, picked up speed after Eisenhower's 1956 intestinal operation, and was revived after the President's mild stroke 16 days ago.

Since last spring Adams has been making speeches intended to play down his own importance and play up the President's leadership, physical condition and awareness of what's going on.

But this week Adams outdid all his past efforts.

He made a speech before Republicans in St. Louis Monday night. The theme was the same: the President's physical strength, his leadership, the alertness of his mind.

"In short," Adams told his Republican listeners who have had trouble whipping Democrats in Missouri, "the President is back in the saddle."

Then he said: "If that message gives you a lift, I have heard some news here that gives me a lift. This news is being made here. . . . Here are signs of some real political activity—Republican activity.

"Here I feel a new, invigorating spirit . . . All of this I am going to report to our President as soon as I get back to Washington. I assure you that this news will give him, as it has me, a great lift."

This is what made the speech remarkable:

Adams wrote it in Washington. The passage about getting a lift from the news he heard in Missouri was in the mimeographed copies handed to newsmen at the White House Monday morning before he left for the West to deliver the speech.

He didn't explain how, while writing the speech here, he could hear what people in St. Louis were telling him hours later, or why he didn't interrupt his speech writing and run and tell the President what he had just heard.

Santa and the STRONG BOY

by LUCRECE HUDGINS BEALE

SYNOPSIS: King Ignatz takes Richard from the circus to be his court jester. He tells Richard he plans to conquer the Kingdom of Mitzenpoo by Christmas Day. Poor Richard is so frightened he faints at the news.

CHAPTER SEVEN
RICHARD'S PLAN

That night Richard lay awake on his cot in King Ignatz' dressing room.

"What shall I do?" he cried to himself. "This wicked king is going to attack Mitzenpoo and conquer my father and there's no one to stop him. If only I were brave and wise I'd stop him!"

Then he thought, "The king is asleep now. He can't hurt me when he is asleep. I'll capture him now!"

He slipped off the cot and into the king's bedroom. Ignatz snored so loudly the windows rattled. For a moment Richard was too frightened to move.

"But he's asleep," he reminded himself. "I'm safe while he's asleep."

He leaned far over the bed. His heart thumped with fear. Slowly he reached out and caught the ends of the soft feather mattress. Then, in one quick movement, he rolled up the mattress with blankets, sheets, pillows and Kig Ignatz inside.

He lifted the immense bundle to his shoulder and ran out of the room.

"Stop!" cried a guard. "What are you doing?"

"I'm—I'm taking the king for a walk," stammered Richard.

The guard's eyes popped. Then he laughed. "Oh what a jester you are! Is that the kind of joke that amuses the king?"

"I—I think so," said Richard as he edged away. The load on his back was beginning to stir. He hurried to the top of the great staircase in the center hall. But just as he began to descend there was a muffled rumble from inside the mattress and then a giant roar:

"Put me down! Put me down!"

Richard's heart sank and his knees turned to jelly. Obediently he dropped his load.

Richard swung high over the guards' heads.

Down the broad stairs rolled the mattress and out of the mattress rolled King Ignatz.

There were a hundred steps and King Ignatz whacked each one as he rolled to the bottom. Finally he came to a stop. For an instant he lay there while horrified guards rushed to his aid.

The king got up and glared at Richard who stood rooted to the spot at the top of the stairs.

"We'll get him, your majesty," cried one of the guards as he drew his sword.

"I'll get him," snarled the king. "Stand back!"

The guards backed away and King Ignatz started up the stairs. One by one he climbed the hundred steps and all the time his eyes bored into Richard's eyes and the boy grew weaker and weaker.

Ninety-five, ninety - six, ninety-seven—the king placed his foot on the ninety-eighth step and reached out his hands. At that very moment Richard collapsed. He sank in a limp heap over the balustrade and zoomed down the railing to the bottom of the stairs.

Ignatz clutched at the empty air and roared. He started back down the steps as Richard jumped to his feet. The prince took one frightened look at the king and then ran across the hall and leaped to the top of the immense mantle piece. There he stood and gazed down at the king.

"Ladder! Get me a ladder!" screamed the king.

A ladder was brought and laid against the fireplace. Ignatz began to climb. Richard was cornered. His eyes rolled in his head. Suddenly he saw the giant chandelier holding hundreds of candles suspended from the ceiling.

He threw himself out from the mantle and caught the bottom of the chandelier. For an instant he swung there and then the chandelier with all its lights crashed to the floor.

The king and the guards dashed wildly about stamping out the candles. In the confusion Richard scurried away on his hands and knees.

U. S. Locomotives Now Gird Globe

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER
Central Press Assn.

CHICAGO — The sun does not set on American locomotives being shipped abroad to spur the shift by foreign railroads from an estimated 160,000 steam locomotives to Diesels.

An American traveler abroad can expect to see the familiar lines of the same railroad engines he sees at home, in virtually every country around the globe and hear the same throaty roar of its Klaxon horn, because in recent months new engines have been shipped from the United States to Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Cuba, Liberia, Egypt, Iran, Indonesia and Pakistan.

The latest contingent of 29 shiny new Diesels, striped in brilliant orange on royal blue, recently left the Electro-Motive shops here for Korea where they will replace worn - out engines left over from the U. S. Army imports for the Korean war.

* * *

SINCE THEIR track gauge is the same as the United States (4 feet, 8½ inches wide), the engines are hooked into regular freight trains and rolled on their own wheels to San Francisco, where great cranes hoist them aboard ship.

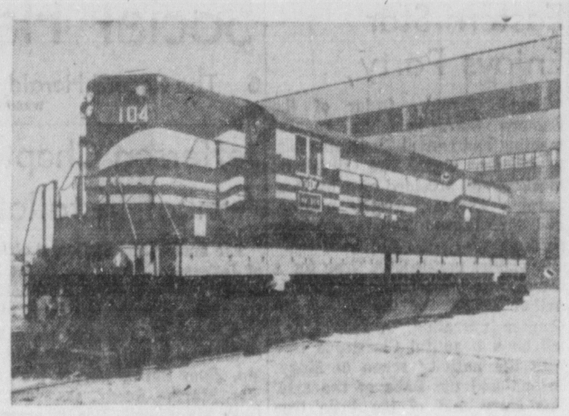

Not all equipment is so simple, however, because there are four other standard track widths in use throughout the world, the widest being 5 feet 6 inches, and locomotives for them must go piggy - back all the way.

Trainees from the Korean National railway have been here for several months learning operation and maintenance of the new Diesel locomotives, and no youngster with a new electric train is more excited than Wun Gun Kim and Duck Yong Lee over their new engines in life size.

* * *

THE KOREAN locomotives are virtual counterparts of big Diesels operating on U. S. lines, because the clearances as to height and width are the same. Japan, which built the Korean railroads during its long occupation of that country, unaccountably built bigger and better equipment there than it had at home.

There is a long tradition of American engines abroad. A U. S. locomotive operating on the Finnish railways occupies a place in the history of the Russian revolution, because in the crucial summer of 1917, Lenin took refuge on it and escaped pursuers in a Soviet version of "The Great Locomotive Chase."

One of the 29 Diesel locomotives soon to become a familiar sight to Americans stationed in Korea.

When Commodore Matthew Perry opened up Japan to commerce with the West at the climax of his famous voyage of 1852, he captured the imaginations of the Japanese by building and operating a shortline railroad on the beach.

* * *

KOREAN locomotives built here were financed by the international co-operative administration at $6,525,000 for the 29 engines and $345,000 for spare parts. Korea expects to pay for them in two years through savings achieved by not having to import coal.

Although the Dieselization of foreign railroads is a bonanza for American locomotive builders, they are encountering increased competition from European builders who now are crowding into the market.

Formerly most of them made steam locomotives.

In a recent public bidding for a fleet of diesels on the Argentine National Railways there were 67 bids filed by 25 companies seeking to supply the huge new rail tonnage.

Apparently only India, which plans to use its own mammoth stores of coal, plans to stick largely to steam engines among the major countries.

Untimely Kiss Costs Plenty

MONMOUTH, Ill. (AP)—Ray Schenour, 50, paid heavily for a kiss he stole from a 16-year-old girl.

She told police that she tried to find out the time; when Schenour came upstairs to the apartment above his to tell her the time, he evidently expected a reward, for he put his arm around her and kissed her. He was charged with disorderly conduct.

Justice of Peace R. Hardin McCoy fined him $100 and $9 costs.

Erie Chancery Lists Martyrs

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Basic documentation of a plea by U. S. Roman Catholic bishops for the mass election to sainthood of 116 American martyrs has been published here by the Erie chancery office.

Prepared by a commission of church historians, headed by Archbishop John Mark Gannon, bishop of Erie, it presents accounts of the lives and deaths of the martyrs. Many of them died in the early American West.

The Sacred Congregation of Rites in Rome still is considering the plea for their cannonization.

Newspaper Expands Around Waistline

ABERDEEN, Miss. (AP)—Reviewing his first five years at the helm of the Aberdeen Examiner, editor Roy Stenfort recalled the various improvements he had made in the newspaper plant.

RICHARD'S PLAN

That night Richard lay awake on his cot in King Ignatz' dressing room.

"What shall I do?" he cried to himself. "This wicked king is going to attack Mitzenpoo and conquer my father and there's no one to stop him. If only I were brave and wise I'd stop him!"

Then he thought, "The king is asleep now. He can't hurt me when he is asleep. I'll capture him now!"

He slipped off the cot and into the king's bedroom. Ignatz snored so loudly the windows rattled. For a moment Richard was too frightened to move.

"But he's asleep," he reminded himself. "I'm safe while he's asleep."

He leaned far over the bed. His heart thumped with fear. Slowly he reached out and caught the ends of the soft feather mattress. Then, in one quick movement, he rolled up the mattress with blankets, sheets, pillows and Kig Ignatz inside.

He lifted the immense bundle to his shoulder and ran out of the room.

"Stop!" cried a guard. "What are you doing?"

"I'm—I'm taking the king for a walk," stammered Richard.

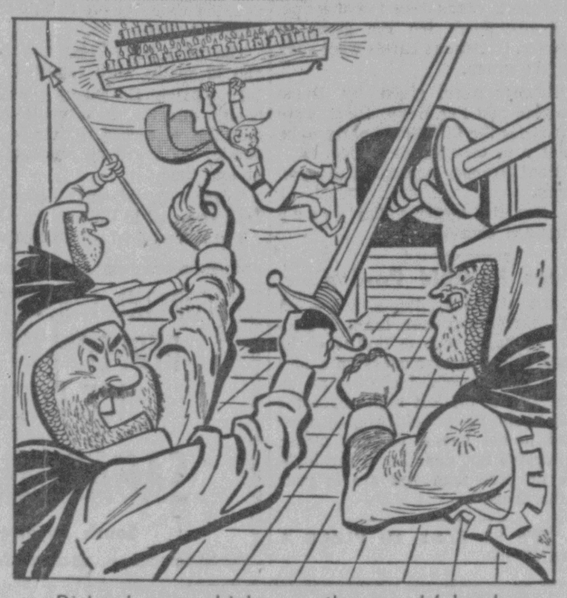

The guard's eyes popped. Then he laughed. "Oh what a jester you are! Is that the kind of joke that amuses the king?"

"I—I think so," said Richard as he edged away. The load on his back was beginning to stir. He hurried to the top of the great staircase in the center hall. But just as he began to descend there was a muffled rumble from inside the mattress and then a giant roar:

"Put me down! Put me down!"

Richard's heart sank and his knees turned to jelly. Obediently he dropped his load.

Down the broad stairs rolled the mattress and out of the mattress rolled King Ignatz.

Richard swung high over the guards' heads.

There were a hundred steps and King Ignatz whacked each one as he rolled to the bottom. Finally he came to a stop. For an instant he lay there while horrified guards rushed to his aid.

The king got up and glared at Richard who stood rooted to the spot at the top of the stairs.

"We'll get him, your majesty," cried one of the guards as he drew his sword.

"I'll get him," snarled the king. "Stand back!"

The guards backed away and King Ignatz started up the stairs. One by one he climbed the hundred steps and all the time his eyes bored into Richard's eyes and the boy grew weaker and weaker.

Ninety-five, ninety - six, ninety-seven—the king placed his foot on the ninety-eighth step and reached out his hands. At that very moment Richard collapsed. He sank in a limp heap over the balustrade and zoomed down the railing to the bottom of the stairs.

Ignatz clutched at the empty air and roared. He started back down the steps as Richard jumped to his feet. The prince took one frightened look at the king and then ran across the hall and leaped to the top of the immense mantle piece. There he stood and gazed down at the king.

"Ladder! Get me a ladder!" screamed the king.

A ladder was brought and laid against the fireplace. Ignatz began to climb. Richard was cornered. His eyes rolled in his head. Suddenly he saw the giant chandelier holding hundreds of candles suspended from the ceiling.

He threw himself out from the mantle and caught the bottom of the chandelier. For an instant he swung there and then the chandelier with all its lights crashed to the floor.

The king and the guards dashed wildly about stamping out the candles. In the confusion Richard scurried away on his hands and knees.

KITCHENER, Ont. (AP) — Sgts. Herbert Gimbel and Cecil Farnham, both completing 31 years on the Kitchener police force, say modern policemen "never had it so good." In their early days the pair pounded a beat for 11 hours at a stretch, with one day off each month.

U. S. Locomotives Now Gird Globe

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER
Central Press Assn.

CHICAGO — The sun does not set on American locomotives being shipped abroad to spur the shift by foreign railroads from an estimated 160,000 steam locomotives to Diesels.

An American traveler abroad can expect to see the familiar lines of the same railroad engines he sees at home, in virtually every country around the globe and hear the same throaty roar of its Klaxon horn, because in recent months new engines have been shipped from the United States to Brazil, Argentina, Chile, Cuba, Liberia, Egypt, Iran, Indonesia and Pakistan.

The latest contingent of 29 shiny new Diesels, striped in brilliant orange on royal blue, recently left the Electro-Motive shops here for Korea where they will replace worn - out engines left over from the U. S. Army imports for the Korean war.

* * *

SINCE THEIR track gauge is the same as the United States (4 feet, 8½ inches wide), the engines are hooked into regular freight trains and rolled on their own wheels to San Francisco, where great cranes hoist them aboard ship.

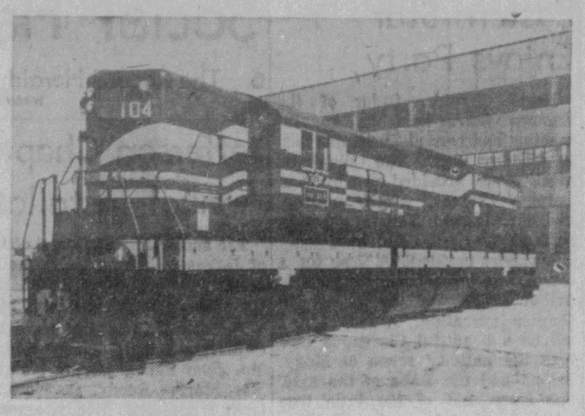

Not all equipment is so simple, however, because there are four other standard track widths in use throughout the world, the widest being 5 feet 6 inches, and locomotives for them must go piggy - back all the way.

Trainees from the Korean National railway have been here for several months learning operation and maintenance of the new Diesel locomotives, and no youngster with a new electric train is more excited than Wun Gun Kim and Duck Yong Lee over their new engines in life size.

* * *

THE KOREAN locomotives are virtual counterparts of big Diesels operating on U. S. lines, because the clearances as to height and width are the same. Japan, which built the Korean railroads during its long occupation of that country, unaccountably built bigger and better equipment there than it had at home.

There is a long tradition of American engines abroad. A U. S. locomotive operating on the Finnish railways occupies a place in the history of the Russian revolution, because in the crucial summer of 1917, Lenin took refuge on it and escaped pursuers in a Soviet version of "The Great Locomotive Chase."

One of the 29 Diesel locomotives soon to become a familiar sight to Americans stationed in Korea.

When Commodore Matthew Perry opened up Japan to commerce with the West at the climax of his famous voyage of 1852, he captured the imaginations of the Japanese by building and operating a shortline railroad on the beach.

* * *

KOREAN locomotives built here were financed by the international co-operative administration at $6,525,000 for the 29 engines and $345,000 for spare parts. Korea expects to pay for them in two years through savings achieved by not having to import coal.

Although the Dieselization of foreign railroads is a bonanza for American locomotive builders, they are encountering increased competition from European builders who now are crowding into the market.

Formerly most of them made steam locomotives.

In a recent public bidding for a fleet of diesels on the Argentine National Railways there were 67 bids filed by 25 companies seeking to supply the huge new rail tonnage.

Apparently only India, which plans to use its own mammoth stores of coal, plans to stick largely to steam engines among the major countries.

Untimely Kiss Costs Plenty

MONMOUTH, Ill. (AP)—Ray Schenour, 50, paid heavily for a kiss he stole from a 16-year-old girl.

She told police that she tried to find out the time; when Schenour came upstairs to the apartment above his to tell her the time, he evidently expected a reward, for he put his arm around her and kissed her. He was charged with disorderly conduct.

Justice of Peace R. Hardin McCoy fined him $100 and $9 costs.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The men's auxiliary of the United Lutheran church has changed its name from "The Brotherhood of the United Lutheran Church" to "United Lutheran Church Men."

Erie Chancery Lists Martyrs

ERIE, Pa. (AP)—Basic documentation of a plea by U. S. Roman Catholic bishops for the mass election to sainthood of 116 American martyrs has been published here by the Erie chancery office.

Prepared by a commission of church historians, headed by Archbishop John Mark Gannon, bishop of Erie, it presents accounts of the lives and deaths of the martyrs. Many of them died in the early American West.

The Sacred Congregation of Rites in Rome still is considering the plea for their cannonization.

Newspaper Expands Around Waistline

ABERDEEN, Miss. (AP)—Reviewing his first five years at the helm of the Aberdeen Examiner, editor Roy Stenfort recalled the various improvements he had made in the newspaper plant.

"Everything has grown at the Examiner," his page-one column said. "But most of all, my waistline."

The week before, 491 new cases and 12 deaths were reported.

Dr. Ralph E. Dwork, state health director, said while there may be a second influenza epidemic, there are no signs of one at this time.

So far 7,637 influenza cases have been reported in Ohio this year.

The newest deaths reported were one each in Washington, Lucas and Pickaway counties, bringing the 1957 total to 113.

Different Opinions

NEW YORK (AP) — Rabbi Dr. Bernard Lander, director of the graduate school of Yeshiva University, says the current "religious upswing is essentially superficial and is founded on such weak props as social conformity and secular popularity." From Catsup Bottle...to Myrrh...to Christmas

Did you know a bottle of catsup will make a lovely Christmas ornament?

A jar of mustard, a cake pan, and many other simple, everyday, household items can be transformed into perfect holiday decorations.

In the larger picture, a home service advisor from The Dayton Power and Light Co. is creating a display silhouetting the three wise men. Its all done with such simple things as. . .

Heavy black paper, white cardboard, scissors, scotch tape, foil paper, colorful beads, small cardboard box, ablong cake pan, 25-watt light bulb (socket, cord and plug,) catsup and mustard bottles.

Have most of these things in your cupboard? Here's how you put them together. . .

* * *

BEGIN by covering the outside of the cake pan with foil paper. Any color can be used. If the red, gold or green of Christmas is not readily available, the aluminum foil you may have in the kitchen will make a very effective display.

From heavy black paper, trace, then cut the silhouette of the wise men. (A pattern is available, free upon request from: Home Lighting Department, The Dayton Power and Light Co., 25 N. Main St., Dayton,) Remember, though, this is just a basic idea.

With a touch of imagination you might turn the wise men into snow men, a manger or Santa and his reindeer. Cut-outs from Christmas cards may be used by tracing around them several times, each trace a little larger than the original, until you have the size pattern desired.

Mount the standing silhouette about halfway back in the cake pan using scotch tape to hold in an upright position.

Place a 25 watt bulb on a piece of metal foil behind the silhouette. Any type or color of bulb may be uses as long as it is not more than 25 watts. A bulb with higher wattage will become too hot.

* * *

FASTEN the white cardboard (width cut to fit cake pan, height about 8½ inches) at back of pan for reflector. (see other picture.)

The incense and myrrh are made simply by covering a catsup bottle and mustard jar with foil paper.

The small chest is nothing more than a gift box, although any kind of cardboard box will do. Remove lid and ends of box, cover with foil and turn upside down. Strings of jewelry can be arranged in and around it.

Assemble silhouette, myrrh, chest, incense and beads on cotton, white tissue paper or a pretty cloth. Add a touch of green and you have an eye-catching display, both original and economical.

BACK FROM JUNGLE—June Johnson, 30, returning to Chicago from an exploration trip in the Oriente jungle of Ecuador arrives with her face berry-stained by friendly natives. It will be about a month before the markings will disappear. She is shown holding shrunken sheep's head found during her 200-mile travel.

All the Comforts Of Movie - At Home

CINCINNATI (AP) — How about a home with a drive - in motion picture theater thrown in?

Home owners in one block of the Oakley section of Cincinnati have one just off their back yards.

They complained when the drive-in theater opened just behind them. Their complains turned to joy, however, when the theater operators provided each home with a sound box so they could hear the show as well as see it from back porch or yard.

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

From the large, open fireplaces where wood three feet and more in length was burned (not forgetting the big "back log" which always formed a background for the remainder o' the firewood) to the present modern furnaces is quite a jump, and it required well over 100 years to make the change.

Because no brick and, in many instances no stone, was available to build the first chimneys for log cabin fireplaces in the early days in this area, the chimneys were constructed of small logs four to six inches in diameter, and the interior was given a heavy coating of clay mortar to prevent the heat from setting fire to the log chimney.

However this did not always work, and more than one log cabin in Fayette County was consumed by flames which started in the wooden chimneys with their lining of puddled clay.

As long as log houses were used, the big open fireplaces were an important part of them, for all of the family cooking was originally done in these fireplaces, which were equipped with iron cranes and pothooks; the "spiders" or long - handled, long-legged skillets and "dutch ovens."

Some of these houses were heated by wood fires for 125 years after the first cabins were built in the jungles of the county.

Then the more modern homes were built which were heated by grates — still open fireplaces but more modernly constructed. Coal was then being used extensively for fuel.

Some of these early homes are still standing in this city and county, and the large rooms, with their 10 - to - 15 - foot ceilings were a real problem to heat. Dangers of destructive fires being started from these open grates was pronounced.

Then came iron stoves, and later furnaces, until today modern heating units keep homes comfortable in all kinds of weather, compared with the uncomfortable homes of the past which could not be heated by open fires.

Today the average person takes just about all modern conveniences for granted and gives little thought to the homes of our forefathers and the few comforts of life that existed at that time.

BANK ON SECOND FLOOR

Some time after the Fayette County Bank was organized, it seems to have been located on the second floor of a building on the site of the First National Bank.

For years prior to its merging with the Ohio State Bank it was located where the First Federal Building and Loan Assn., has its place of business.

A copy of the Fayette County Herald of April 9, 1863, carries the following advertisement:

"Fayette County Bank. Over Silcott & Seymour's Store, Washington C. H., Ohio. James Pursell, cashier.

"Interest paid on deposits when left a specified time. Gold and silver bought and sold. Money loaned. Notes discounted. Eastern and Western Exchange bought and sold. Uncurrent bank notes bought. Good indorsed short-time bills bought. Collections made and remitted promptly. Banking hours 9 a. m. till 3 p. m."

THIRTY YEARS AGO

A blizzard raged through the mid-west, sending the mercury down 38 degrees to 12 above zero. Later in the week abnormal rainfall melted snow and caused streams to reach flood stage.

Half of a dressed steer, stolen from Weaver Brothers, abbatoir was left in a ditch along Flake's Ford Rd.

The Dayton Power and Light Co. was building line from Xenia to this city, and was to follow in few months with a second line on steel towers, the first being supported by wooden poles.

Two half-frozen wanderers applied for protection from the cold, and were placed in city jail where both showed severe frost bite.

The Congressional Medal was voted to Charles A. Lindbergh for flying solo from the U. S. to France. Lindbergh made a flight on a good will trip to Mexico City, using the "Spirit of St. Louis" in which he crossed the Atlantic.

Almer Heglar and John Duncan left their main Indian relic collections to the Ohio State Archaeological Society.

Demands were growing for a more adequate water supply for the city in addition to wells in use at the time.

Miss Gladys LaFollett, 16, sustained a severe neck wound when a pistol containing a blank cartridge, which she was playfully twirling while rehearsing for the Junior play "O. K." at Bloomingburg, was accidentally discharged.

Latin America Gears Vast Network Of Roads To Span Its Exotic Lands

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Assn.

CAQUEZ, Colombia — By the time that U. S. motorists can accomplish the supreme touring thrill of modern times by driving to the Panama canal and into South America—now in the immediate foreseeable future (by 1959)—the road network of countries in the southern continent of the New World may be a revelation to them.

Imposing as it is, the huge United States turnpike building program which is lifting the highway face of the nation actually, in some respects, is laid in the shade by spectacular engineering achievements of the roadbuilders in Colombia, Venezuela, Equador and other South American countries.

Immediately after the most adventuresome U. S. drivers push on beyond the canal, they will link up with 6,000 miles of ultra-modern highways Colombia is building in a Herculean effort started in 1956 and scheduled for completion by 1960 at a cost of $40 million.

* * *

THE NETWORK will link the capital, Bogota, with every corner of the country. American construction firms are playing a leading role and the International Bank for Reconstruction has loaned $80 million.

Crews are working at elevations of 12,000 feet in the Andes, as well as through swamps and tropical jungles which have kept transportation difficult there ever since the Spanish explorers.

The most spectacular road building job of all is Venezuela's fabulous "autopista" highway recently opened by Col. Marcos Perez Jimenez, president of Venezuela, and one of Latin America's greatest construction projects since the Panama Canal itself.

Three years in the building, employing 10,000 men and costing $60 million, the new, 10-mile-long route between the harbor city of La Guaira and Caracus, the capital, cuts driving time from one hour to only 20 minutes and eliminates 329 curves.

* * *

THREE OF the largest prestressed concrete bridges in the world are along its route, and the 15 million bid by a French firm specializing in this revolutionary new technique is one of the few which took major work away from big U. S. builders who had offered to do it for $30 million.

The new road is a direct connecting link to the Pan American highway. Toll charges will be 66 cents for cars and up to $10 for trucks and trailers.

It is only part of a Venezulean program embracing 280 projects aggregating $300 million annually from its vast oil income.

American drivers are likely to rub their eyes in amazement when they encounter the 15-mile, two-lane superhighway between Bogota and Chai, Colombia. With no speed limit it is a huge success 10,000 feet high in the Andes and is used by more than 110,000 vehicles a month.

* * *

UPON COMPLETION of these roads, everyday motorists will be able to do real-life exploring in their cars.

Perched along cliffs and boring great tunnels, workmen are completing 230 miles of modern highway to open up Colombia's fabulous Llanos country, a 250,000 square mile "Texas-like" region still virtually uninhabited.

Starting at zero, the road climbs to a chilly 12,000 feet and down to 8,000 to reach Bogota with its million population.

* * *

WHEN CAN ALL this actually be reached by car? Probably sooner than most American motorists think, because by next January, they will be able to drive from the United States through Mexico, Guatamala, El Salvador, Honduras and Nicaragua to San Isidro in southern Costa Rica, according to the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, which is putting up two-thirds of the $100 million needed to forge the last link in the chain for 150 miles from St. Isidron south to Concepcion, Panama.

That is 2,727 miles from Laredo, Tex.

By early 1959, the road will be open all the way to the canal, completing an unbroken ribbon of highways from Alaska to the present network in South American countries which will be pushed eventually to the Straits of Magellan at the southern tip of Argentina.

For some years much of the roadway through Central America will be reminiscent of the early days of motoring in this country, but at the same time one of the biggest thrills and tests of the stamina of motorists and their cars left in the world today.

Baltimore Cops Shoot the Bull

BALITMORE (AP)—There was no one around to shout "Ole!" but patrolmen Walter Sheppard and Hallam Evans finally subdued the one-ton Braham bull in a clearing off Washington Boulevard.

The bull had vaulted the fence of a meat-packing company pen.

The police fired away with revolver and 30-30 rifle as the enraged animal charged their car again, but bullets bounced off his tough hide. They finally brought him down after using about 50 bullets.

Christmas Costume Is Fun to Make . . . And To Wear

By DOROTHY ROE
Assoc. Press Women's Editor

It's fun to dress up on Christmas day in a completely frivolous apron, overskirt or blouse that is meant to be worn only once a year.

This year textile designers have produced all kinds of gaily printed Christmas fabrics with cheerful designs of holly, poinsettias, Christmas bells and such that lend themselves ideally to holiday accessories.

These are inexpensive, washable cotton fabrics, so you don't need to feel extravagant about making something that comes out only at Santa Claus time. You can get several yards for a dollar, and most of the fabrics are sanforized against shrinkage.

* * *

ONE BRIGHT idea suggested by local sewing center experts is a gay Christmas overskirt, to wear over your indispensable little black sheath dress on Christmas Day.

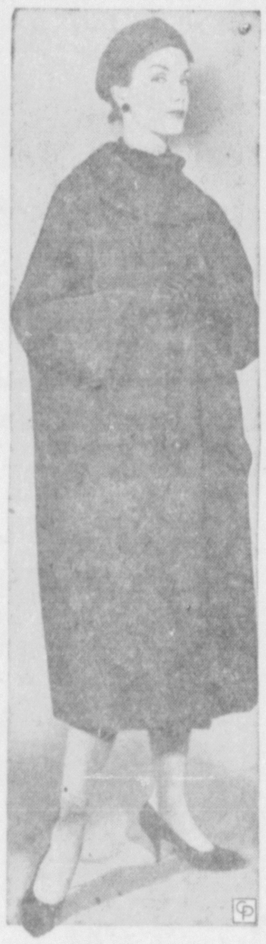

They recommend a border print design of red poinsettias with green leaves on a black background, made with a commercial pattern with inch rulers printed on it, so you can be sure to get the border print at the right point.

The overskirt itself has a border at the hemline and another strip of border print is used for a wide shirred cummerbund. Just in case you don't own the basic sheath dress, the envelope includes a pattern for making one.

* * *

IF YOU OWN a white wool dress, you might consider a holiday border print with a red background for an overskirt or a white background print with red and green holly wreath motif.

While you're basting the turkey, you can just turn the overskirt around to make an apron. Since the fabric is washable, you'll have no worries if you get a gravy spot on it.

CHAMPS ELYSEES — Buttoned-across mushroom collar highlights a red coat of burlap tweed designed by the late Christian Dior.

Latin America Gears Vast Network Of Roads To Span Its Exotic Lands

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Assn.

CAQUEZ, Colombia — By the time that U. S. motorists can accomplish the supreme touring thrill of modern times by driving to the Panama canal and into South America—now in the immediate foreseeable future (by 1959)—the road network of countries in the southern continent of the New World may be a revelation to them.

Imposing as it is, the huge United States turnpike building program which is lifting the highway face of the nation actually, in some respects, is laid in the shade by spectacular engineering achievements of the roadbuilders in Colombia, Venezuela, Equador and other South American countries.

Immediately after the most adventuresome U. S. drivers push on beyond the canal, they will link up with 6,000 miles of ultra-modern highways Colombia is building in a Herculean effort started in 1956 and scheduled for completion by 1960 at a cost of $40 million.

* * *

THE NETWORK will link the capital, Bogota, with every corner of the country. American construction firms are playing a leading role and the International Bank for Reconstruction has loaned $80 million.

Crews are working at elevations of 12,000 feet in the Andes, as well as through swamps and tropical jungles which have kept transportation difficult there ever since the Spanish explorers.

The most spectacular road building job of all is Venezuela's fabulous "autopista" highway recently opened by Col. Marcos Perez Jimenez, president of Venezuela, and one of Latin America's greatest construction projects since the Panama Canal itself.

Three years in the building, employing 10,000 men and costing $60 million, the new, 10-mile-long route between the harbor city of La Guaira and Caracus, the capital, cuts driving time from one hour to only 20 minutes and eliminates 329 curves.

Korea War Vets Get $64,275 In State Bonus

Less than Half Of Eligibles Have Received Checks

A total of $64,275.30 has been paid to 255 Fayette County veterans of the Korean War, or their next-of-kin, in state bonuses since June 1 the Korean Conflict Compensation Fund director said today

Bernard Witherspoon, veterans' service office here, said he had passed out approximately 700 bonus applications to Korean War veterans and next-of-kin in Fayette County.

The applications he noted, were filled out by the veterans, themselves. For this reason, he said, there is no way of knowing now many in the county applied for the bonus, or even the number eligible for it.

However, on the the basis of bonus payments reported by the state headquarters during the first six months and the number of application forms distributed, indications are that less than half of the veterans in the county have received their bonuses.

The announcement by state headquarters said that $33,022,323.38 has been paid to veterans in six months. An average of $252.06 has been paid to 130,932 living veterans. That is just about the same average as paid to veterans in Fayette County.

Applications may be filed through Dec. 31, 1958.

Bigger Harbor Program Urged

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some Ohioans in Congress are urging the Eisenhower administration to start a hurry-up program to deepen harbors in Lakes Erie and Ontario.

Reps. Baumhart and Dennison, Ohio Republicans, said today this work is urgently needed to prepare for the big ships that will enter the lakes after the St. Lawrence Seaway is finished.

The Seaway, scheduled for completion in 1959, will permit ships with a maximum draft of 27 feet. Harbors on Lake Erie and Lake Ontario have a maximum depth of 25 feet.

"There is no use having the Seaway," said Baumhart, "unless the ships can use the harbors to the most economical advantage, 27 feet." Both Baumhart and Dennison talked to Budget Director Percival Brundage Monday about this matter.

They asked the administration to request three million dollars for harbor deepening on Erie and Ontario.

They contended that the work should be done in those two lakes first because ships from the Seaway will be unable to use the other lakes until connecting channels are ready in 1962.

The Ohioans proposed that Congress later would specify where the three million would be spent.

"What we want," Dennison said, "Is to accomplish in one year legislation that normally takes two years."

Brundage, however, reportedly was rather cool to the legislative shortcut. He countered that the money should be requested only after the Army engineers complete a current harbor survey.

Other Great Lakes congressmen, according to Baumhart, also are interested in the speedup proposal.

However, he said the word in administration circles is: "cut out all new (construction) starts."

O'Neill Says Government Costs Too High

Governor Expecting Economies Rather Than Added Taxes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill makes it clear that he expects economies to spike demands for new taxes, without weakening state government operations.

The governor's observations followed the opening of a study of state and local tax problems by a committee whose recommendations may carry considerable weight in the next Legislature.

O'Neill has credited Ohio's rapid industrial growth to a "favorable tax climate" in contrast to other states where taxes generally are on the increase.

"I think that any study made now should be on how to reduce the cost of government," the governor said. "The cost is too high and the tax burden is excessive.

"Concern should be for a reduction over-all in that tax burden. I have rigidly held to a policy of no new taxes. The first thing to consider is a reduction in expenses before turning your attention to other matters.

"I am of the opinion that if we scrutinize government, you can always find places where you can reduce expenses.

"I think we will end this biennium with a surplus and will not need any new taxes."

O'Neill said rigid controls, clamped on last July, kept state spending below appropriations. He indicated the controls would stay. Savings through use of modern machines and business practices, he added, take time.

The last Legislature, working with O'Neill under GOP majority control, created the 15-man committee now studying tax problems. Sen. Charles A. Mosher (R-Lorain) is chairman of the group composed of five senators and 10 representatives.

Mosher called on state Finance Director John A. Skipton to answer this question posed by Sen. W. Danner (R-Summit), Akron business man and a member of the committee:

"What are we doing to economize before we look for additional revenue?"

Skipton said "pressures" for increased spending come mainly from those who benefit from governmental larges.

The biggest highway program in the state's history resulted from demands of motorists for better roads, he explained.

Demands for health care and aid for the aged, which have more than doubled, "originate with the persons who receive the benefits" and some hospitals where they receive care.

"In schools," he continued, "they come from the people who are interested in the courses of instruction that are given to pupils. Sputnik has stimulated more interest in higher education than in the higher enrollments."

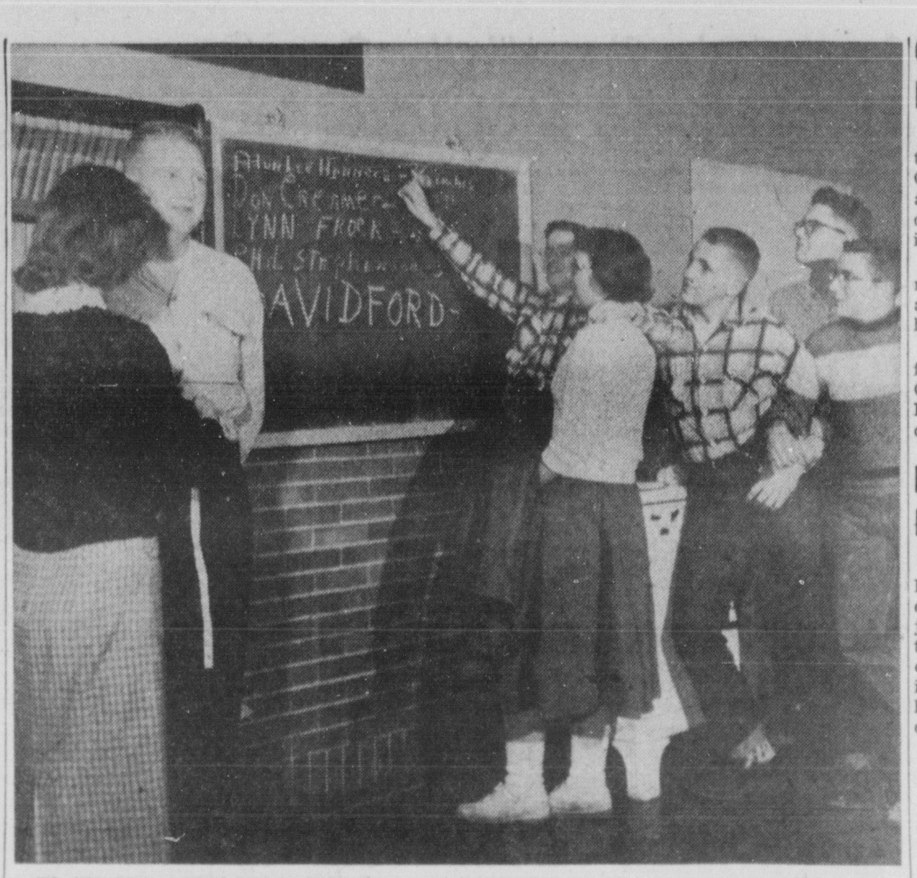

Skipton cited "extended service" payments authorized by lawmakers to school districts for extra teaching services. He said coaches were paid to teach football during summer months under that program. Various extended services could run up a five million dollar deficit in the school foundation program, he cautioned, and require additional revenue.

After reviewing other governmental problems, Skipton said:

"Any major increase in any programs of government are going to raise the specter of new taxes . . . new taxes will depend on the programs which follow the next Legislature."

THIS IMPORTED beige tweed suit was designed by Christian Dior for his New York collection. Pale beige bone buttons are used for the jacket closing, standaway collar and hipline bands.

ITS "TWERP WEEK" AT JHS—Wasp-waisted Don Creamer really has it made at Jeffersonville High School this week. Observing "Twerp Week," a big dance will climax the activities Saturday night in the school gym, and admission will be charged on the basis of a penny per inch of waist measurements of the couples attending. That's where Don has it made with his 23 inch waist. Up in the mid-30 measurements are from left to right: David Ford, Lee Hanners, Lynn Frock and Phil Stephenson. Patti Ault is measuring Ford, and Patty Sears is holding Don up so he can record his measurement. During "Twerp Week" the girls ask the boys for dates, pay coke checks and carry the boys' books.

Selden Grange Holds Meeting Tuesday Night

Selden Grange, at a regular meeting Tuesday night, considered a number of questions involving the expenditure of funds. Among them were: contributions to the State Grange Youth Fund, Fayette County TB Assn., and Selden Grange's share of the recent installation expense.

Mary Ann Morter reported that the Blood Bank, which was sponsored by the Granges this time, received 152 pints of blood from donors, and that, while this was not quite as good as had been hoped for, was not too bad considering the prevalence of flu and colds.

The master discussed the CROP program, pointing out that Selden Grange had assumed the responsibility of the solicitation in Concord Township. Sixty dollars has been turned in to date, with two solicitors yet to report.

County Deputy Roscoe Whiteside and Mrs. Whiteside were welcome visitors. Whiteside reported on the District Grange Officers' Conference held at Clarksburg Saturday night. This district includes Ross County and the surrounding counties. He said that the attendance was good, and that the Grange officers present received valuable help and inspiration from the State Grange officers who conducted the meeting.

• • •

THE DEPUTY also presented Selden Grange with a calender from the State Grange, and an award certificate from the National Grange for participating in the National Grange Community Service Contest.

He announced that the next Pomona Grange meeting will be held Thursday night at the Farm Bureau Auditorium.

The treasurer, W. H. Theobald, reported that $40 was netted from the luncheon which the Home Economics Committee served at the Emerson Marting Hereford sale.

Greenfield Tax Rate Increases

GREENFIELD—Highland county tax rates for 1957, on which real estate taxes will be paid in 1958, were announced by W. L. Robison, county treasurer.

Rates are higher in 40 of the county's 61 taxing districts, lower in the remaining 21. The boosts in most instances are two mills or less.

The rate in the Village of Greenfield is 1.70 mills higher, going up from 22.80 to 24.50 per $1,000 of property valuation. The new rate includes the millage for retirement of storm drains bonds voted in November, 1956.

New Pickaway School District Named for Prehistoric River

CIRCLEVILLE — Teays Valley is the official name of the newly consolidated northeastern school district. That name was picked as the new board of education met in Ashville School.

The Teays Valley district is comprised of the old Ashville, Harrison, Madison, Scioto and Walnut school districts.

• • •

AFTER extensive consideration of a name for the new consolidated district the title, Teays Valley was finally decided upon. Because of its abundant water supply the underground Teays River is given partial credit for the locating of the Lockbourne Air Force Base and the DuPont industries in this area.

Due to its significance to this area in the past and present, its name was selected for the new school district.

• • •

THE TEAYS RIVER is thousands of years old, pre-dating the glacial period in Ohio. It passes through the Pickaway County district as an underground stream.

Before the ice age, the mighty Teays, which is estimated to have wide, carried the surface waters of southeastern Ohio and West Virginia northward to Lake Erie.

'South Pole' Call Gets to Michigan

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Mrs. Rose Hutchings thought it was just a bum joke when she answered her telephone at 1:30 a.m. and a voice said: "South Pole calling."

Then she heard the voice of her son-in-law Gerald Dubois, who is serving with a naval unit in the South Pole area.

A ham operator in St. Clair Shores had contacted Dubois' group by radio and then put through a telephone call to bring Mrs. Hutchings into the hookup.

Boa Still Lurking In School Cabinet

CLEVELAND (AP) — The hottest classroom question at Byron Junior High School in Shaker Heights the last two days is:

When will the boa constrictor crawl out of his hiding place in Room 121?

Samuel Conway, social studies teacher whose hobby is nature, took the snake from its cage Monday before school to inspect it. He put it down on the floor of his home room for a moment, and the foot-long boa found an opening in the base of a cabinet.

Rather than rip the cabinet apart, school officials will let nature take its course. When the snake gets hungry, it will find the opening again and slither out into its cage, they say.

O'Neill Says Government Costs Too High

Governor Expecting Economies Rather Than Added Taxes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill makes it clear that he expects economies to spike demands for new taxes, without weakening state government operations.

The governor's observations followed the opening of a study of state and local tax problems by a committee whose recommendations may carry considerable weight in the next Legislature.

O'Neill has credited Ohio's rapid industrial growth to a "favorable tax climate" in contrast to other states where taxes generally are on the increase.

"I think that any study made now should be on how to reduce the cost of government," the governor said. "The cost is too high and the tax burden is excessive.

"Concern should be for a reduction over-all in that tax burden. I have rigidly held to a policy of no new taxes. The first thing to consider is a reduction in expenses before turning your attention to other matters.

"I am of the opinion that if we scrutinize government, you can always find places where you can reduce expenses.

"I think we will end this biennium with a surplus and will not need any new taxes."

O'Neill said rigid controls, clamped on last July, kept state spending below appropriations. He indicated the controls would stay. Savings through use of modern machines and business practices, he added, take time.

The last Legislature, working with O'Neill under GOP majority control, created the 15-man committee now studying tax problems. Sen. Charles A. Mosher (R-Lorain) is chairman of the group composed of five senators and 10 representatives.

Mosher called on state Finance Director John A. Skipton to answer this question posed by Sen. W. Danner (R-Summit), Akron business man and a member of the committee:

"What are we doing to economize before we look for additional revenue?"

Skipton said "pressures" for increased spending come mainly from those who benefit from governmental larges.

The biggest highway program in the state's history resulted from demands of motorists for better roads, he explained.

Demands for health care and aid for the aged, which have more than doubled, "originate with the persons who receive the benefits" and some hospitals where they receive care.

"In schools," he continued, "they come from the people who are interested in the courses of instruction that are given to pupils. Sputnik has stimulated more interest in higher education than in the higher enrollments."

Skipton cited "extended service" payments authorized by lawmakers to school districts for extra teaching services. He said coaches were paid to teach football during summer months under that program. Various extended services could run up a five million dollar deficit in the school foundation program, he cautioned, and require additional revenue.

After reviewing other governmental problems, Skipton said:

"Any major increase in any programs of government are going to raise the specter of new taxes . . . new taxes will depend on the programs which follow the next Legislature."

Selden Grange Holds Meeting Tuesday Night

Selden Grange, at a regular meeting Tuesday night, considered a number of questions involving the expenditure of funds. Among them were: contributions to the State Grange Youth Fund, Fayette County TB Assn., and Selden Grange's share of the recent installation expense.

Mary Ann Morter reported that the Blood Bank, which was sponsored by the Granges this time, received 152 pints of blood from donors, and that, while this was not quite as good as had been hoped for, was not too bad considering the prevalence of flu and colds.

The master discussed the CROP program, pointing out that Selden Grange had assumed the responsibility of the solicitation in Concord Township. Sixty dollars has been turned in to date, with two solicitors yet to report.

County Deputy Roscoe Whiteside and Mrs. Whiteside were welcome visitors. Whiteside reported on the District Grange Officers' Conference held at Clarksburg Saturday night. This district includes Ross County and the surrounding counties. He said that the attendance was good, and that the Grange officers present received valuable help and inspiration from the State Grange officers who conducted the meeting.

• • •

THE DEPUTY also presented Selden Grange with a calender from the State Grange, and an award certificate from the National Grange for participating in the National Grange Community Service Contest.

He announced that the next Pomona Grange meeting will be held Thursday night at the Farm Bureau Auditorium.

Was Famed Desperado a Portsider?

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Association Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—The southpaws of the USA are certain to object to Paul Newman's portrayal of Billy the Kid in his next film, The Left-Handed Gun. Newman plays Billy as a neurotic westerner.

"For our purposes," says the intense Actors Studio performer, "the 'left-handed' title was perfect. After extensive research, I find it best describes one of the big names of western lore.

"Billy's (William Bonney's) mental and physical place in the world was mixed up. He was a left-handed personality and the rest of the world was right-handed. He was, in his mind, the only one in step and this, natch, led to his troubles—a violent life and death."

When a guy like Paul Newman finally agrees to do a role on the screen, he does it only because he wants to do it and because he feels he can give a new, true characterization to the role he plays. He's an honest, intense young man, we've discovered.

* * *

"I TRY NEVER to get involved in a role in which I cannot wholeheartedly believe," he says. And his studio knows this only too well—he threatens to go on suspension at the drop of a bad film! "An actor," he theorizes, "in addition to putting something of himself in each portrayal, must have a decided feeling for the character he is to play."

When he was first interested in the role, Newman read everything on the killer which he could lay his hands on. Then, one day, he told us he was off to Lincoln county, New Mexico, "to get the feel of the country" where Billy lived. He also compared the various legends about Bonney in the true locales of their origin.

Stories concerning Bonney are legion and seldom have any two agreed; many of them have reached the public in contrasting forms. Newman, who had studied the colorful character for two years, assures us that the script which Leslie Stevens finally completed is the nearest to the true Billy the Kid story.

Paul Newman as Billy the Kid shoots down a rival —left-handed—in scene from forthcoming movie.

To tackle a piece of Americana like Billy would have been easier 10 years ago, in the pre-television days. However, nowadays, almost everyone has enough trail dust in his nose, and saddle callousses to qualify as somewhat of an expert in sagebrush. The "good" guys and the "bad" guys of history have become something far more special than the soap opera television cowboys.

* * *

"IT'S FAR from simple to do an honest interpretation of a man like Bonney," explains Paul. "You just can't assume that he was a bad man, a killer, and let it go like that. People like the Kid are not just black and white—matter of fact, few things in life really are.

"Bonney was a hunted man. However, at the same time when he was being hunted by virtually every law enforcement agency of the day, he was also the respected hero of the New Mexico citizens and Indians—who were not violent people.

"So, I had to try and find out what made him a killer—what made him continue to kill when he was faced with some of the toughest law men in the west. Don't get me wrong, though, we weren't out to justify his behavior, just to explain it. Believe me, it was a real challenge.

"There will be plenty of controversy, too, over the left-handed tag. It's an argument that has been going on since Sheriff Pat Garrett gunned the Kid down.

"Seems there have been but two authentic pictures of the Kid. Available prints show him both left and right-handed, and since the original plates have long since been lost, no one has been able to prove which is correct."

However, since Newman deduced that the Kid was not an average-type fella, he decided to play him left-handed.

"I just hope," Newman says, "people of today will feel a little sympathetic toward a thoroughly confused delinquent of yesterday."

And we hope that today's southpaws will be sympathetic toward Newman!

Elderly Couples May Get Single Security Checks

Procedure Change To Mean Major Bookkeeping Saving

Elderly couples in the future may receive their monthly social security payments in a single check instead of separately, the Social Security Administration announces.

Officials said the single - check procedure has been used on a limited basis in the last several months and has proved so successful that it will be extended to all retired couples during the next few months.

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Marion B. Folsom said the change from separate checks to husbands and wives will save the social security system about a million dollars a year.

Any beneficiary who for any reason objects to the combined payment will be paid by separate check.

The issuance of single checks to married couples began in September 1956 for new beneficiaries. In the 10 months of operation, the new payment method reduced by one - half the cost of writing checks in these cases.

* * *

BEGINNING in January, 1958, the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance will extend the practice of issuing single checks to elderly couples who were on social security rolls prior to September 1956.

No combination of social security benefits payable to a husband and wife will be made where they are not living together, or where part of the wife's benefit is based upon her own record of work under social security.

Currently, almost 11 million persons, including 1,700,000 elderly couples, receive monthly social security benefits. Folsom said the total cost of issuing checks is an increasingly important cost factor in the operation of the program.

He pointed out that it costs more than 5 cents to prepare and mail each check. It is estimated that the change to single checks for elderly couples could reduce the number of checks issued by 20 million.

Organized Crime Charted like Huge Corporation

Underworld Mobs Set Up Like Big Business

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Assn.

CHICAGO—Underworld mob operations here and in New York City, with tentacles reaching out to the rest of the country, now are set up like big business and aim to function with the smoothness of a huge corporation, says the new type of crime-fighter here who is mobilizing the federal government's counterattack against the new strategems of the mobs.

With more of his personal background in corporation than criminal law when he became "D. A.," U. S. District Attorney Robert Tieken says he can spot in the so-called "Crime Syndicate" the same kind of line and staff organization which business has found to be most effective.

It seems to be part of a trend among top leaders or organized crime to try to take over legitimate businesses where they can invest their huge take from illegal activities and present a disarming facade by posing as ordinary investors.

Having "gone into big business," the current heirs of Al Capone and Bugs Moran of an earlier era have adopted big business ways. So the district attorney's office here maintains a daily organization chart of the underworld complete with names, jobs, and territories.

* * *

INTERRELATIONSHIPS between New York and Chicago operations were recently highlighted by the tracing to a warehouse here of the gun used to kill Albert Anastasia, the former "lord high executioner" of "Murder, Inc.," who was blasted as he sat in a barber chair.

Rather frequent revisions are necessary in the organization chart in the wake of such "reorganizations" as the gangland execution last spring of Frank Scalise, reputed associate of New York gambling czar Frank Costello, slain in typical gangland style as he stepped into the street from a Bronx delicatessen.

The kind of changes Tieken likes best to make in his chart, however are those occasioned by the efforts of his own team of crime fighters, like the recent cancelling by a federal judge here of the citizenship of Paul (The Waiter) Ricca, by exposing his true identity as Felice De Lucia, linked with two murders in Naples, Italy, before coming to the United States.

Ricca-De Lucia, a long-time Capone mobster, has shared with Tony Accardo a top spot in the organization chart as co-chieftain of the crime organization directly below Johnny Torio, "chairman of the board."

Each of these big wheels has his "executive assistants," whose names also are pinpointed, and who operate in staff capacities just as do such officials in regular corporate and business office.

The most direct influences exerted from New York over crime operations here are in narcotics and labor racketeering. Gambling is Chicago's big contribution to the scheme of things, with its influence projected directly from here to Peoria, Ill., St. Louis, and Las Vegas, itself.

* * *

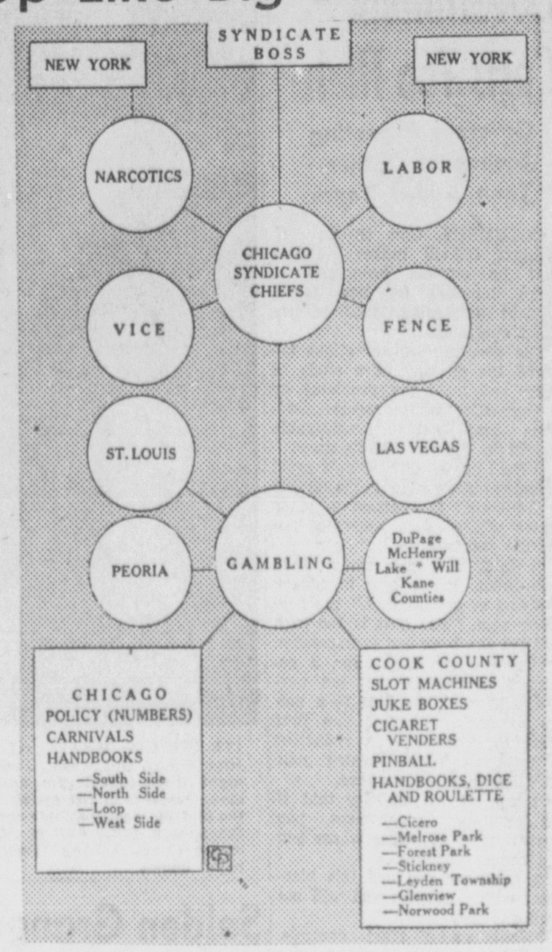

TIEKEN is a partner-on-leave from the old-line LaSalle St. corporation law firm of Winston, Strawn, Black and Towner, bearing the name of Silas Strawn, and he believes he can read the criminal organization "like a corporate minute book."

He explains that "the line—or production—functions of organized crime breaks down into divisions operating in robbery, narcotics, rackets, gambling, labor, vice, and fence operations to resell stolen goods in ordinary commerce.

"Staff, or service, functions supply carefully calculated specialized assistance to the line "executives,' the way that such a setup works efficiently in many a business office. These services are financial, legal, accounting, and political."

Tieken is eternally puzzled, however, by why the public does not "wise up to the fact" that it is being bilked by organized crime in a manner that would cause the downfall of any legitimate business overnight, "if it took advantage of the customers in the same way."

He thinks that when the public finally awakens to this fact, the mobsters will have to abandon their new high-fallutin' corporate-type operations and return to the penny-ante footpad and roughneck operations of old.

Here's chart of crime syndicate operation.

Space Books Are Ideal Gifts For Youngsters

By VIVIAN BROWN

You can't go wrong if you choose books for Christmas gifts. But buy them early, so you'll have a chance to read them yourself before you wrap them.

This year's books are right on the beam with the times, a gift no young modern will scoff at.

Things you want to know about space, history, chemistry, atomic energy are presented in new, interesting fashion. Read your dull old testbooks in school if you must, but learn the easy way in your spare time and round out your enjoyment by reading science fiction.

* * *

TAKE THAT old man - made moon, for instance. It might as well be made of green cheese, for all you know about it, perhaps. But a new book, "Space Satellite," by Lee Beeland and Robert Wells, gives you intriguing information on our Project Vanguard, with a preface by Dr. John Hagen, its director.

The value of the book is in simplified explanations and diagrams of rockets, a treat for girls, especially, who can't tell the second stage oxidizer tank from the first stage rocket motor.

Do you like history when it is portrayed interestingly? Then you'll remember the story of Pearl Harbor as told in Felix Sutton's "We Were There at Pearl Harbor" (Grosset and Dunlap), an ideal addition to any student's library.

* * *

THE STORY of Pearl Harbor is seen through the eyes of young people living in Hawaii. There is a 14-year-old Mike, who on his most unforgettable birthday sees a black speck in the sky that turns out to be a Jap Zero.

Father is a captain in the regular Navy, brother Jeff is a lieutenant in the Army. What happens then is thrillingly told. Brother Jeff takes off in his P-40, to strike back in the air. Mary Jane, the girl next door, pitches in with nurses and doctors to help save the injured on the ground.

Three books by the same author, Julian May, (Popular Mechanics) are also in tune with our times. . . .

* * *

THERE'S Adventure in Atomic Energy" is about Randy, an average American boy in his teens whose father writes science books. Step by step Randy learns the mysteries of the atom from his Dad. Through little simple experiments that anyone can conduct in his own home, Randy learns a great deal about the great big project called atomic energy.

He makes an electroscope out of aluminum foil, a jar lid, a large cork, fine copper wire, copper metal disk and nail polish. It's a fascinating experiment, especially when you get around to charging the electroscope with a glass rod.

* * *

"THERE'S Adventure in Chemistry" is another in this series to appeal to both girls and boys. It too consists of fictional adventuring in the chemical elements that surround us. There are explanations of many chemical mysteries and a jivel, drawing of a tree of chemical technology that should help make your chemistry studies simpler.

"There's Adventure in Electronics" may not appeal to a girl at first glance, especially if she looks at the chart on electronic symbols and components. But after a while you may be fascinated to know as much about some of these parts as big brother or Dad.

It must be admitted that girls may not choose advanced learning in electronics, but they will enjoy learning the basics, especially when Dad and the boys discuss the high powered instruments around the house— TV or what have you.

Was Famed Desperado a Portsider?

By ARMAND ARCHERD
Central Press Association Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—The southpaws of the USA are certain to object to Paul Newman's portrayal of Billy the Kid in his next film, The Left-Handed Gun. Newman plays Billy as a neurotic westerner.

"For our purposes," says the intense Actors Studio performer, "the 'left-handed' title was perfect. After extensive research, I find it best describes one of the big names of western lore.

"Billy's (William Bonney's) mental and physical place in the world was mixed up. He was a left-handed personality and the rest of the world was right-handed. He was, in his mind, the only one in step and this, natch, led to his troubles—a violent life and death."

When a guy like Paul Newman finally agrees to do a role on the screen, he does it only because he wants to do it and because he feels he can give a new, true characterization to the role he plays. He's an honest, intense young man, we've discovered.

* * *

"I TRY NEVER to get involved in a role in which I cannot wholeheartedly believe," he says. And his studio knows this only too well—he threatens to go on suspension at the drop of a bad film! "An actor," he theorizes, "in addition to putting something of himself in each portrayal, must have a decided feeling for the character he is to play."

When he was first interested in the role, Newman read everything on the killer which he could lay his hands on. Then, one day, he told us he was off to Lincoln county, New Mexico, "to get the feel of the country" where Billy lived. He also compared the various legends about Bonney in the true locales of their origin.

Stories concerning Bonney are legion and seldom have any two agreed; many of them have reached the public in contrasting forms. Newman, who had studied the colorful character for two years, assures us that the script which Leslie Stevens finally completed is the nearest to the true Billy the Kid story.

Paul Newman as Billy the Kid shoots down a rival —left-handed—in scene from forthcoming movie.

To tackle a piece of Americana like Billy would have been easier 10 years ago, in the pre-television days. However, nowadays, almost everyone has enough trail dust in his nose, and saddle callousses to qualify as somewhat of an expert in sagebrush. The "good" guys and the "bad" guys of history have become something far more special than the soap opera television cowboys.

* * *

"IT'S FAR from simple to do an honest interpretation of a man like Bonney," explains Paul. "You just can't assume that he was a bad man, a killer, and let it go like that. People like the Kid are not just black and white—matter of fact, few things in life really are.

"Bonney was a hunted man. However, at the same time when he was being hunted by virtually every law enforcement agency of the day, he was also the respected hero of the New Mexico citizens and Indians—who were not violent people.

"So, I had to try and find out what made him a killer—what made him continue to kill when he was faced with some of the toughest law men in the west. Don't get me wrong, though, we weren't out to justify his behavior, just to explain it. Believe me, it was a real challenge.

"There will be plenty of controversy, too, over the left-handed tag. It's an argument that has been going on since Sheriff Pat Garrett gunned the Kid down.

"Seems there have been but two authentic pictures of the Kid. Available prints show him both left and right-handed, and since the original plates have long since been lost, no one has been able to prove which is correct."

However, since Newman deduced that the Kid was not an average-type fella, he decided to play him left-handed.

"I just hope," Newman says, "people of today will feel a little sympathetic toward a thoroughly confused delinquent of yesterday."

And we hope that today's southpaws will be sympathetic toward Newman!

Elderly Couples May Get Single Security Checks

Procedure Change To Mean Major Bookkeeping Saving

Elderly couples in the future may receive their monthly social security payments in a single check instead of separately, the Social Security Administration announces.

Officials said the single - check procedure has been used on a limited basis in the last several months and has proved so successful that it will be extended to all retired couples during the next few months.

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Marion B. Folsom said the change from separate checks to husbands and wives will save the social security system about a million dollars a year.

Any beneficiary who for any reason objects to the combined payment will be paid by separate check.

The issuance of single checks to married couples began in September 1956 for new beneficiaries. In the 10 months of operation, the new payment method reduced by one - half the cost of writing checks in these cases.

* * *

BEGINNING in January, 1958, the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance will extend the practice of issuing single checks to elderly couples who were on social security rolls prior to September 1956.

No combination of social security benefits payable to a husband and wife will be made where they are not living together, or where part of the wife's benefit is based upon her own record of work under social security.

Currently, almost 11 million persons, including 1,700,000 elderly couples, receive monthly social security benefits. Folsom said the total cost of issuing checks is an increasingly important cost factor in the operation of the program.

He pointed out that it costs more than 5 cents to prepare and mail each check. It is estimated that the change to single checks for elderly couples could reduce the number of checks issued by 20 million.

Organized Crime Charted like Huge Corporation

Underworld Mobs Set Up Like Big Business

By FRANKLIN JOHNSON
Central Press Assn.

CHICAGO—Underworld mob operations here and in New York City, with tentacles reaching out to the rest of the country, now are set up like big business and aim to function with the smoothness of a huge corporation, says the new type of crime-fighter here who is mobilizing the federal government's counterattack against the new strategems of the mobs.

With more of his personal background in corporation than criminal law when he became "D. A.," U. S. District Attorney Robert Tieken says he can spot in the so-called "Crime Syndicate" the same kind of line and staff organization which business has found to be most effective.

It seems to be part of a trend among top leaders or organized crime to try to take over legitimate businesses where they can invest their huge take from illegal activities and present a disarming facade by posing as ordinary investors.

Having "gone into big business," the current heirs of Al Capone and Bugs Moran of an earlier era have adopted big business ways. So the district attorney's office here maintains a daily organization chart of the underworld complete with names, jobs, and territories.

* * *

INTERRELATIONSHIPS between New York and Chicago operations were recently highlighted by the tracing to a warehouse here of the gun used to kill Albert Anastasia, the former "lord high executioner" of "Murder, Inc.," who was blasted as he sat in a barber chair.

Rather frequent revisions are necessary in the organization chart in the wake of such "reorganizations" as the gangland execution last spring of Frank Scalise, reputed associate of New York gambling czar Frank Costello, slain in typical gangland style as he stepped into the street from a Bronx delicatessen.

The kind of changes Tieken likes best to make in his chart, however are those occasioned by the efforts of his own team of crime fighters, like the recent cancelling by a federal judge here of the citizenship of Paul (The Waiter) Ricca, by exposing his true identity as Felice De Lucia, linked with two murders in Naples, Italy, before coming to the United States.

Ricca-De Lucia, a long-time Capone mobster, has shared with Tony Accardo a top spot in the organization chart as co-chieftain of the crime organization directly below Johnny Torio, "chairman of the board."

Each of these big wheels has his "executive assistants," whose names also are pinpointed, and who operate in staff capacities just as do such officials in regular corporate and business office.

The most direct influences exerted from New York over crime operations here are in narcotics and labor racketeering. Gambling is Chicago's big contribution to the scheme of things, with its influence projected directly from here to Peoria, Ill., St. Louis, and Las Vegas, itself.

* * *

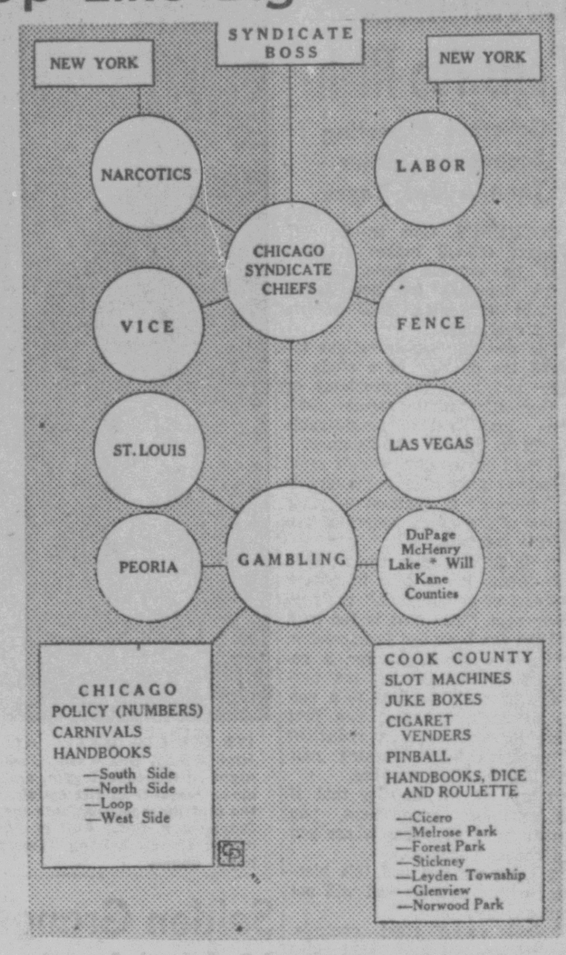

TIEKEN is a partner-on-leave from the old-line LaSalle St. corporation law firm of Winston, Strawn, Black and Towner, bearing the name of Silas Strawn, and he believes he can read the criminal organization "like a corporate minute book."

He explains that "the line—or production—functions of organized crime breaks down into divisions operating in robbery, narcotics, rackets, gambling, labor, vice, and fence operations to resell stolen goods in ordinary commerce.

"Staff, or service, functions supply carefully calculated specialized assistance to the line "executives,' the way that such a setup works efficiently in many a business office. These services are financial, legal, accounting, and political."

Tieken is eternally puzzled, however, by why the public does not "wise up to the fact" that it is being bilked by organized crime in a manner that would cause the downfall of any legitimate business overnight, "if it took advantage of the customers in the same way."

He thinks that when the public finally awakens to this fact, the mobsters will have to abandon their new high-fallutin' corporate-type operations and return to the penny-ante footpad and roughneck operations of old.

Here's chart of crime syndicate operation.

Tight Money Seen Ready To Depart

Federal Financial Rules Being Relaxed; Banks May Trim Charges Too

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Tight money may not have departed yet but there are signs today it is at least packing its bags.

The Federal Reserve Board has pumped a little money into the commercial banking system—not much, but apparently a little more than the Christmas shopping season would seem to require. This concrete action follows its earlier signalling of a change of heart by cutting its own interest charges to the banks.

The U. S. Treasury has been able to borrow at less than 3 per cent. With the exception of two weeks in May this is the only time this year the cost hasn't been above that figure, the high point being 3.66 per cent on October 14.

Yields on outstanding Treasury bonds have been dropping, too.

And the yield for the investors on a top-rated utility debt offering has slipped below 4 per cent for the first time in more than a year.

Demand on the banks for business loans has been easing, while at this time last year it was increasing.

Talk grows that the banks themselves will have to back down from the high charges they have been making for these loans. This may not come until next month, a period when demand for loans is seasonally low, since business firms and individuals alike are more prone then to be paying off their debts than to be taking on new ones.

It was the ever mounting demand for loans from all sides — governments, corporations, consumers — that made money tight in the first place. The federal reserve was set on letting it stay tight as a means of fighting the inflation then under way.

Just making money tight doesn't in itself stop the kind of inflation we have been having but the money managers feel that it can hold the trend down.

Just making money easy doesn't in itself send consumers on a buying spree or make manufacturers step up production schedules but it does make it easier for consumers to buy on the cuff if they feel like it and easier for industry to expand or carry inventories if it feels the outlook justifies it.

But the slight turning away from tight money hasn't been something just cooked up in Washington. It springs from something that came much earlier than the federal reserve action — the downturn in industrial activity the slackening in expansion planning, the layoffs and production slowdowns.

Business activity set off the march to tight money. And business now is leading the march away from it.

Giant Comic Book Has Unique Mission Overseas; It Corrects Misrepresentations of Life in U.S.

By LESLIE P. EICHEL

NEW YORK—What is destined to be the best-selling book abroad? Few would guess.

It's the giant comic book, price approximately 10 cents, answering with truth and good humor the distortions and misrepresentations of American life by the Communists.

That is one of the ventures of the People-to-People foundation.

Al Capp is chairman of its cartoonists' committee. Executives and cartoonists of various syndicates serve on that committee, give of their time and effort free.

* * *

WHAT IS the People-to-People foundation?

It came about at a White House meeting called by President Eisenhower. Charles E. WIlson, former president of the General Electric Co., was invited to serve as president, to organize and to raise funds.

"The President asked us to develop not one method but thousands of methods by which people can gradually learn a little bit more of each other in order to dispel ignorance, strengthen friendships and build a true and lasting peace," Wilson explains.

"During the past 20 years a people-to-people movement has been a-borning in this country and abroad, in which both governments and dozens of private organizations have participated," Wilson continued.

"The Institute for International Education, founded through the efforts of the late Elihu Root and directed so successfully for more than two decades by Dr. Stephen Duggan, and now continuing under Dr. Kenneth Holland, was the outstanding pioneer in the field of exchange students and teachers."

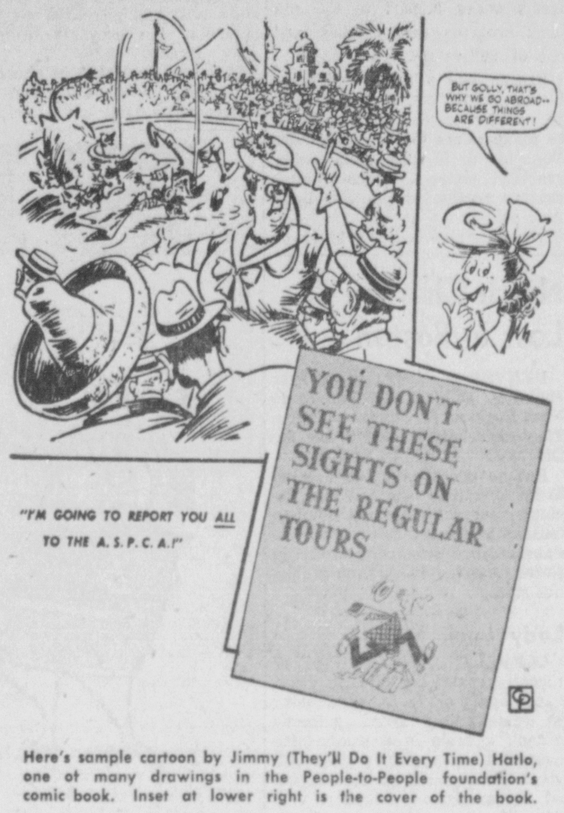

* * *

"THEN THERE are the 4-H Club exchanges, the Fulbright and Guggenheim fellowships, the Experiment in International Living, the letter-writing activities of several organizations, the distribution of books, magazines and films, and the extensive activities of labor unions, business and professional and religious groups. People-to-People is indeed a vital and flourishing movement.

"The 41 chairmen, upon whom we rely for initiative in developing a vastly expanded people-to-people program, are not working without precedents.

"Dr. Louis Uauer, secretary-general of the World Medical Association, chairman of our medical and health professions' committee, has been conducting people-to-people activities for more than 10 years, and has developed plans for intensifying this effort just as soon as we were able to supply him with additional funds.

"Mrs. William Barclay Parsons, chairman of the women's groups, is now undertaking a nationwide survey of our hospitality facilities, with a view of developing a coordinated program of hospitality to supplement many notable existing agencies now working in the field. . ."

* * *

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER posed some questions to the group invited to meet with him in organizing the effort. He asked, "How do we strengthen friendships? How do we learn of others?. . ."

Our way, the democratic way, he made clear: "We marshal the forces of initiative, independent action and independent thinking of 168 million people.

"Today we have this problem . . .of creating understanding between peoples. Here (in the group meeting with him) are people that we hope will lead us. Governments can do no more than point out the way and co-operate and assist in merchanical details. They can publish certain official documents.

"However, I am talking about exchange of professors and students and executives, the providing of technical assistance, and of the ordinary traveler abroad.

"In short, what we must do is to widen every possible chink in the Iron Curtain. . ."

* * *

THE MEANS of furthering exchange are out of the ordinary. For example, hobbies have been one of the most intriguing.

Even music, which is universal, is approached from a new angle beyond the exchange of great orchestras and musicians and students. An illustrated booklet, "Music in America," prepared under the direction of Eugene Ormandy, conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra, chairman of the music committee is certain to become an international favorite.

Talent, of course, seeks an outlet beyond any boundaries, physical or ideological.

The Original Amateur Hour American television show, with Ted Mack as its host, has brought over entire shows and numerous single acts from other countries, and is sending scouts to the borders of the Iron Curtain, and even beyond.

Ed Sullivan and other television leaders have brought over acts. The government cultural relations' aides consider these activities of great value.

Canada, Brazil and Sweden consume more than a ton of fuel wood pe. capita in a year.

Mrs. Ray Jennings Will Head Rural Fund Drive Again

Mrs. Ray Jennings, Leesburg Rd., will head the Heart Fund campaign in Rural Fayette County again next year. Her appointment of chairman for this phase of the campaigning for the second year in a row was announced today by the Central Ohio Heart Assn.

In accepting the assignment again, Mrs. Jennings said "heart disease is responsible for more than 50 per cent of the deaths in Fayette County and I feel all of us have an obligation to combat this No. 1 health problem."

The Heart Fund drive in Fayette County will be Feb 1-28 next year. Of the funds collected, 75 per cent will remain in Ohio. Ten per cent of the total contributed here will be used by the Fayette County Heart Council to sponsor local community and educational programs, Mrs. Jennings said.

Since 1949, the Central Ohio Heart Assn. has allocated over $500,000 to heart research in Ohio, Mrs. Jennings said. Funds from the coming February campaign will make possible the continuing of the research program, she pointed out.

As chairman, Mrs. Jennings will be in charge of organizing the entire rural county drive.

A member of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, she has two children, Steven, 11, and Dale, 6.

Temperance Solution

GREEN LAKE, Wis. (AP) — A Jesuit priest, speaking at a Methodist School of Alcohol Studies here, suggested the formation of community organizations to promote sobriety— including tee - totallers and moderate drinkers. Thus, said the Rev. John C. Ford, of Weston, Mass.. the two main schools of thought on temperance could work together for the cause.

Household Goods Survey Next Week

The U. S. Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of durable household goods in connection with the December current population survey, according to Supervisor Hobert A. Yerkey of the bureau's regional office in Cincinnati which will participate in the survey.

The questions on durable household goods will cover electric vacuum cleaners, electric washing machines, and living room rugs or carpets. Owners will be asked when these articles were purchased and whether similar items were removed from service during 1957. Year of purchase of items removed from service during 1957 will be asked also.

The household goods information is being collected for the U. S. Department of Agriculture for use in preparing estimates of replacements needs, in budget counseling, and for research in family living costs.

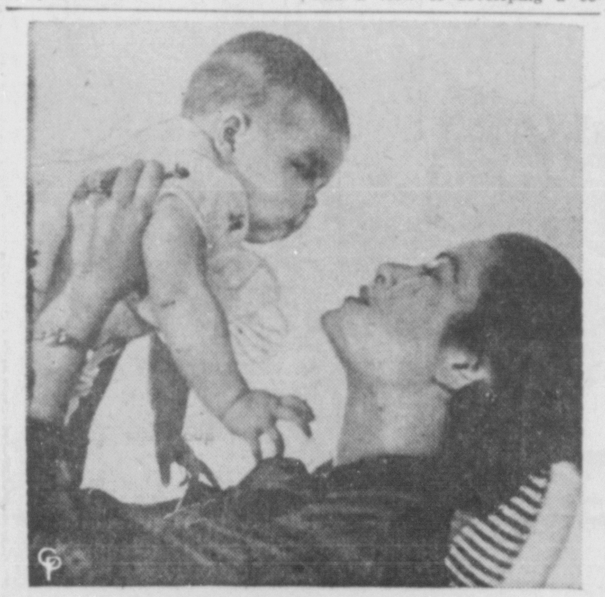

The household goods questions will be asked in addition to the regular monthly inquiries on employment and unemployment. The current population survey will be conducted here and in 329 other areas of the country during the week of Dec. 16. Information will be collected locally by Mrs. Merle Silbaugh, Chillicothe.

Bark, a waste product of the lumber industry, is now being converted into an unusually effective soil builder.

Tight Money Seen Ready To Depart

Federal Financial Rules Being Relaxed; Banks May Trim Charges Too

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Tight money may not have departed yet but there are signs today it is at least packing its bags.

The Federal Reserve Board has pumped a little money into the commercial banking system—not much, but apparently a little more than the Christmas shopping season would seem to require. This concrete action follows its earlier signalling of a change of heart by cutting its own interest charges to the banks.

The U. S. Treasury has been able to borrow at less than 3 per cent. With the exception of two weeks in May this is the only time this year the cost hasn't been above that figure, the high point being 3.66 per cent on October 14.

Yields on outstanding Treasury bonds have been dropping, too.

And the yield for the investors on a top-rated utility debt offering has slipped below 4 per cent for the first time in more than a year.

Demand on the banks for business loans has been easing, while at this time last year it was increasing.

Talk grows that the banks themselves will have to back down from the high charges they have been making for these loans. This may not come until next month, a period when demand for loans is seasonally low, since business firms and individuals alike are more prone then to be paying off their debts than to be taking on new ones.

It was the ever mounting demand for loans from all sides — governments, corporations, consumers — that made money tight in the first place. The federal reserve was set on letting it stay tight as a means of fighting the inflation then under way.

Just making money tight doesn't in itself stop the kind of inflation we have been having but the money managers feel that it can hold the trend down.

Just making money easy doesn't in itself send consumers on a buying spree or make manufacturers step up production schedules but it does make it easier for consumers to buy on the cuff if they feel like it and easier for industry to expand or carry inventories if it feels the outlook justifies it.

But the slight turning away from tight money hasn't been something just cooked up in Washington. It springs from something that came much earlier than the federal reserve action — the downturn in industrial activity the slackening in expansion planning, the layoffs and production slowdowns.

Business activity set off the march to tight money. And business now is leading the march away from it.

Giant Comic Book Has Unique Mission Overseas; It Corrects Misrepresentations of Life in U.S.

By LESLIE P. EICHEL

NEW YORK—What is destined to be the best-selling book abroad? Few would guess.

It's the giant comic book, price approximately 10 cents, answering with truth and good humor the distortions and misrepresentations of American life by the Communists.

That is one of the ventures of the People-to-People foundation.

Al Capp is chairman of its cartoonists' committee. Executives and cartoonists of various syndicates serve on that committee, give of their time and effort free.

* * *

WHAT IS the People-to-People foundation?

It came about at a White House meeting called by President Eisenhower. Charles E. Wilson, former president of the General Electric Co., was invited to serve as president, to organize and to raise funds.

"The President asked us to develop not one method but thousands of methods by which people can gradually learn a little bit more of each other in order to dispel ignorance, strengthen friendships and build a true and lasting peace," Wilson explains.

"During the past 20 years a people-to-people movement has been a-borning in this country and abroad, in which both governments and dozens of private organizations have participated," Wilson continued.

"The Institute for International Education, founded through the efforts of the late Elihu Root and directed so successfully for more than two decades by Dr. Stephen Duggan, and now continuing under Dr. Kenneth Holland, was the outstanding pioneer in the field of exchange students and teachers."

* * *

"THEN THERE are the 4-H Club exchanges, the Fulbright and Guggenheim fellowships, the Experiment in International Living, the letter-writing activities of several organizations, the distribution of books, magazines and films, and the extensive activities of labor unions, business and professional and religious groups. People-to-People is indeed a vital and flourishing movement.

"The 41 chairmen, upon whom we rely for initiative in developing a vastly expanded people-to-people program, are not working without precedents.

"Dr. Louis Uauer, secretary-general of the World Medical Association, chairman of our medical and health professions' committee, has been conducting people-to-people activities for more than 10 years, and has developed plans for intensifying this effort just as soon as we were able to supply him with additional funds.

"Mrs. William Barclay Parsons, chairman of the women's groups, is now undertaking a nationwide survey of our hospitality facilities, with a view of developing a coordinated program of hospitality to supplement many notable existing agencies now working in the field. . ."

* * *

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER posed some questions to the group invited to meet with him in organizing the effort. He asked, "How do we strengthen friendships? How do we learn of others?. . ."

Our way, the democratic way, he made clear: "We marshal the forces of initiative, independent action and independent thinking of 168 million people.

"Today we have this problem . . .of creating understanding between peoples. Here (in the group meeting with him) are people that we hope will lead us. Governments can do no more than point out the way and co-operate and assist in merchanical details. They can publish certain official documents.

"However, I am talking about exchange of professors and students and executives, the providing of technical assistance, and of the ordinary traveler abroad.

"In short, what we must do is to widen every possible chink in the Iron Curtain. . ."

* * *

THE MEANS of furthering exchange are out of the ordinary. For example, hobbies have been one of the most intriguing.

Even music, which is universal, is approached from a new angle beyond the exchange of great orchestras and musicians and students. An illustrated booklet, "Music in America," prepared under the direction of Eugene Ormandy, conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra, chairman of the music committee is certain to become an international favorite.

Talent, of course, seeks an outlet beyond any boundaries, physical or ideological.

The Original Amateur Hour American television show, with Ted Mack as its host, has brought over entire shows and numerous single acts from other countries, and is sending scouts to the borders of the Iron Curtain, and even beyond.

Ed Sullivan and other television leaders have brought over acts. The government cultural relations' aides consider these activities of great value.

Canada, Brazil and Sweden consume more than a ton of fuel wood per capita in a year.

Mrs. Ray Jennings Will Head Rural Fund Drive Again

Mrs. Ray Jennings, Leesburg Rd., will head the Heart Fund campaign in Rural Fayette County again next year. Her appointment of chairman for this phase of the campaigning for the second year in a row was announced today by the Central Ohio Heart Assn.

In accepting the assignment again, Mrs. Jennings said "heart disease is responsible for more than 50 per cent of the deaths in Fayette County and I feel all of us have an obligation to combat this No. 1 health problem."

The Heart Fund drive in Fayette County will be Feb. 1-28 next year. Of the funds collected, 75 per cent will remain in Ohio. Ten per cent of the total contributed here will be used by the Fayette County Heart Council to sponsor local community and educational programs, Mrs. Jennings said.

Since 1949, the Central Ohio Heart Assn. has allocated over $500,000 to heart research in Ohio, Mrs. Jennings said. Funds from the coming February campaign will make possible the continuing of the research program, she pointed out.

As chairman, Mrs. Jennings will be in charge of organizing the entire rural county drive.

A member of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, she has two children, Steven, 11, and Dale, 6.

Temperance Solution

GREEN LAKE, Wis. (AP) — A Jesuit priest, speaking at a Methodist School of Alcohol Studies here, suggested the formation of community organizations to promote sobriety— including tee - totallers and moderate drinkers. Thus, said the Rev. John C. Ford, of Weston, Mass.. the two main schools of thought on temperance could work together for the cause.

Household Goods Survey Next Week

The U. S. Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of durable household goods in connection with the December current population survey, according to Supervisor Hobert A. Yerkey of the bureau's regional office in Cincinnati which will participate in the survey.

The questions on durable household goods will cover electric vacuum cleaners, electric washing machines, and living room rugs or carpets. Owners will be asked when these articles were purchased and whether similar items were removed from service during 1957. Year of purchase of items removed from service during 1957 will be asked also.

The household goods information is being collected for the U. S. Department of Agriculture for use in preparing estimates of replacements needs, in budget counseling, and for research in family living costs.

The household goods questions will be asked in addition to the regular monthly inquiries on employment and unemployment. The current population survey will be conducted here and in 329 other areas of the country during the week of Dec. 16. Information will be collected locally by Mrs. Merle Silbaugh, Chillicothe.

Bark, a waste product of the lumber industry, is now being converted into an unusually effective soil builder.

BUC Figures Analyze Fayette County Payrolls

Where Do We Work and What Do We Make?

How do Fayette Countains, other than the one fourth of the population engaged in agriculture, make a living?

Where do they work, and how much money do they make per year and per week?

Some of these questions are answered partially in 1956 tabulations of the quarterly tax reports of 266 Fayette County employers with an average 3,465 workers subject to the Ohio Unemployment Compensation law.

The law does not cover such groups as agricultural labor interstate railroads, government and domestic service, certain non-profit organizations and employers with fewer thar three workers.

The 266 employers covered reported a total 1956 payroll of $11,419,633, or average weekly earnings of $63.38, in 1956.

* * *

BUT, WHILE nearly 3,500 workers covered by unemployment compensation are on the job in Fayette County, Ohio State Employment Service information indicates that approximately 500 persons, 200 of them women, are available for work in Washington C. H. at current wage levels.

Nearly one-half of this number, the OSES says, are now commuting to Dayton, Columbus, Wilmington and other cities but probably would prefer to work at home.

About three-fourths of the men are under 45 and three out of five of the women are under 35.

Present Fayette County employment, according to unemployment compensation figures, is in the following major fields:

Manufacturing 1,097; wholesale and retail trade, 1,377; transportation and utilities, 239; contract construction, 238; service industries, 222; finance, insurance and real estate, 140; quarrying 112, and not otherwise classified, 40.

* * *

THE MANUFACTURING classification is broken down this way: food and kindred products, 208; lumber products, 145; machinery, 78, and miscellaneous manufacturing, 666.

The employment figure for retail trade is 1,073, and for wholesale trade 304.

BUC - covered employes in banking and finance total 65, while the figure for insurance and real estate is 75.

Service industries are further broken down employment - wise: hotels and rooming houses, 52; personal services, 48; motion pictures and amusements, 48, and other service industries, 74.

* * *

THE REPORT on Fayette County wages and contributions under the unemployment compensation law shows the following total 1956 wages and average weekly earnings by classifications (figure in parenthesis is the number of employers reporting):

Quarrying (3), $500,051, $85.86; contract construction (30), $874,881, $70.69; manufacturing (31), $4,078,691, $71.50; transportation and utilities (11), $1,007,585, $81.07; wholesale trade (27), $1,100,965, $69.65; retail trade (112), $2,868,477, $51.41; finance, insurance, real estate (11), $491,641, $67.53; service industries (37), $403,595, $34.96; miscellaneous (4) $93,747, no average figured.

Labor market information prepared by the Ohio State Employment Service indicates that Washington C. H. manufacturers generally offer the following entry hourly wages: Men, unskilled, $1 to $1.25 semi-skilled, $1.25 to $1.45; skilled, $1.45 to $2.50; Women, unskilled, $1; semi-skilled, $1.05 to $1.20; skilled, $1.20 to $1.65.

Fayette County's $63.38 average weekly earning figure for workers covered under the compensation law stands 82nd among Ohio's 88 counties.

Highland, Brown, Madison, Adams, Meigs and Preble counties report lower average weekly earnings.

* * *

FAYETTE COUNTY payrolls covered by unemployment compensation were up 10.3 per cent over the previous year on Jan. 1, 1956, while covered employment was up 3.9 per cent.

Employment in quarrying was up 14.3 per cent during that period and payrolls were up 23.7 per cent. That year saw a 15.1 per cent increase in manufacturing payrolls and an 8.5 per cent jump in manufacturing employment.

Contract construction employment was off 3.3 per cent but payrolls were up .5 per cent. In the transportation, communication, utilities classification the payroll gain in 1956 was 8.8 per cent, although employment was down .4 per cent. There was a .7 per cent gain in payrolls in wholesale and retail trade and a 1.9 gain in employment.

Employment was down 5.4 in the finance, insurance, real estate classification but payrolls were up .8 per cent.

Service industries saw a 10.8 per cent gain in payrolls and a .5 per cent gain in employment.

4 States To Be Given Chance To Put All Farms in Soil Bank

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Benson says that farmers in four states will be given a chance to put their entire farms under a part of the soil bank program, which takes land out of cultivation.

Benson told a news conference farmers in Illinois, Maine, Nebraska and Tennessee will be allowed to make offers to the Agriculture Department to put their entire cropland under the conservation reserve section of the Soil Bank Act.

The new step is being taken on a trial basis, Benson said. The department would have a choice of accepting or turning down the farmers' offers.

Benson said he hopes the four-state trial will pave the way for extending the program to other states later.

The Soil Bank Act is aimed at promoting the farm economy by taking more land out of cultivation to cut crop surplus. An acreage reserve section of the law provides for payments to farmers who agree not to raise basic crops on the set-aside land. The conservation section, a longer-term proposition, pays farmers for diverting land to such things as trees and grass for periods of three, five or ten years.

Under the trial program in the four states, a farmer would have to agree to put all cropland on his farm into the conservation program for not less than five years.

Benson said that the maximum annual payments of $5,000 permitted under the conservation reserve section will be increased to $10,000 in the four states for those bidding on putting their whole farms into the program.

Sew Christmas in a Pocket

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Sewing skill pays off during the Christmas season, when fancy stitches and bright colors can add festive touches to practical gifts and garments.

A bright idea for the little girl in the family is a dress with interchangeable Christmas pockets, suggested by local sewing center experts.

The dress itself is a beguiling classic made in white pique with red corded trim on yoke and collar. For Christmas, the bright red or green pique pockets, decorated with seasonal motifs, are simply strung on the belt. Later the dress is perfect for parties the year 'round.

Here's how to make the pockets, making full use of the decorative stitching talents of your sewing machine, whether it's the new needle type, or a standard machine using an automatic zigzagger attachment.

* * *

TO MAKE two round pockets four inches in diameter, cut six circles of red or green fabric, leaving an inch seem allowance. Use two thicknesses for the back of each pocket and for the fronts cut off the top of the circle to make a piece slightly bigger than a half circle, and line this section with organdy.

Trace a design, such as holly leaves, on pattern paper and transfer to a piece of white pique.

Cut out design, leaving inch margin all around, position on pocket front section and stitch, using contrasting thread and satin stitch.

For holly berries, use read thread and ball stitch. Trim away excess fabric close to line of stitching. Lay pockets together and mark stitching line. Using narrow satin stitch, work around outline of pocket.

This will stitch the sections together. Trim away excess fabric close to stitching line, and attach loop to back of pocket to slide over belt of dress.

* * *

TO MAKE a round pocket that looks like a Christmas tree ornament, proceed in the same way. Make a band of white pique and decorate with bands of fancy stitching in contrasting colors. Finish the same way as the holly pockets.

POCKET FULL OF CHRISTMAS . . . Interchangeable holiday pockets slip over belt of a year-round pique party dress.

A Christmas tree pocket is made with two Christmas tree sections for the back of the pocket and a third tree backed with organdy for the pocked front — all cut out of green pique. Slice off the top of the front pocket section tree.

Use narrow satin stitch to applique diamonds of white pique and trim each diamond with a contrasting diamond stitch in the center. Join and finish pocket sections in the same way.

This same technique may be used for other seasonal pockets, to keep the party dress up to date, such as a red firecracker pocket for the Fourth of July, an Easter Egg pocket for Easter, and a birthday cake pocket for the birthday party.

Hopkins has a criminal record including convictions for breaking and entering and burglary. He has escaped from custody on one occasion and may be in possession of a German Luger pistol. He should be considered armed and dangerous.

Washington Cocktail Party Said 'Necessary' to Life

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are those who will agree with Elsa Maxwell, publicized for years as queen of international party-throwers, that the cocktail party is a poor substitute for real entertaining.

Washington's top hostesses have often said they'd rather spend their time, talents and money on smallish, select seated - dinners, formal evening receptions or dances. Many of those on the party-lists, especially men, are inclined to the smaller, more cordial affairs where they have a chance to sit down and carry on "a decent conversation."

The Capital cocktail party is something more, however, than an opportunity to grab a few fast drinks on the house with no other obligation than to add to the melee of headliners and meet visiting big-wigs.

Here it is a necessary part of Washington life, a kind of social lobby, a business, if you will. Often in the semmingly informal and relaxed atmosphere, important contacts are made, "big deals" initiated, and potent tips gleaned after potent potions loosen the normally tight-tongued.

"I don't know where Miss Maxwell is invited for cocktails," a local society writer was prompted to reflect on hearing Miss Maxwell's charge, "but I do know that I have been living on cocktail food for years and with no ill effects."

Not only the society editor, but hundreds of Washington partygoers "live" on cocktail party fare, and right well too. With ample buffet spreads at two, or three of these late-day events, it's possible to pick and choose what often amounts to a full course dinner, including almost anything from soup to nuts.

Rare roast beef, turkeys, hams, salads and sweets of all kinds are standard fare at most Washington shindigs. It's not unusual however to find whole roast lamb, whole roast pig, whole sturgeon, spicy curries, hotly seasoned concoctions from the Latin countries and the delicately prepared specialties of the Orient all on the menu on a single night's round of the cocktail circuit.

"We almost never stock our refrigerator except for breakfast fare and a few snacks," one prominent official's wife confided, "We get such good food at other people's houses we never dine at home."

U.S. Clubwomen Showing Change

'58 Model Is Younger, Streamlined, Energetic

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

The modern clubwoman ain't what she used to be.

The 1958 model is young, streamlined, energetic, up to the minute and highly fashion conscious. She probably has several young children, does her own housework, cooking and chauffeuring and in addition interests herself in all kinds of community projects, such as schools, libraries and government.

In addition she sews her own wardrobe, and that of her children. Sometimes she even turns out a few items such as bathrobes and sports shirts for her husband. With the money thus saved she invests in smart new accessories, or splurges on a festive party.

This information comes, in part, from Mrs. Bradford Cushman, of Portland, Maine, chairman of the crafts division of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Right now she is involved in a national sewing contest sponsored by the 10,000 affiliated clubs in this country.

Clubs of 47 states already have signed up for the contest. The final awards will be made at the federation convention in Detroit next June.

"The response has been fantastic," says Mrs. Cushman. "We are offering a prize for the best and most suitable costume for a clubwoman, made at home."

The General Federation of Women's Clubs has 11 million members throughout the world, and 5½ million in the United States.

SHOP TALK

By SHARON

We have heard for years that a wine taster seldom indulges in the liquid, tasting but never swallowing. If we are not to face bankruptcy on this assignment, we are going to have to take our cue from him.

As we made our rounds Martyne Sheline informed us that she could afford the gifts she was buying to give to others but the duplicates for herself were running a little steep.

That seems to be our problem here.

* * *

THE ONE selection we found that we were able to admire but not purchase was the lovely cocktail dress offered by a local shop for the expectant mother. Recalling the simple black crepe dresses which at one time were almost a uniform for the enciente on party occasions, we are very pleased to describe this gown consisting of straight line black faille skirt topped by a lovely blouse of blue taffeta under black lace. This is very reasonably priced at $12.95 and the skirt can continue to serve after the holiday parties under daytime blouses.

This was just one of many such maternity gowns offered by this shop.

* * *

IF YOU are a mix-matcher in your daytime wear, please do not fail to see the cocktail separates offered by another local shop. There is a nice selection of velvet tops, with and without sleeves . . as well as lovely evening sweaters.

These make smart toppings for the graceful flaring evening skirts of quilted jersey, brocade and velvet.

While this shop is well-known for its fine things. . . .the prices are not prohibative. One ensemble of skirt and blouse would run around $25 but with the addition of either a skirt or blouse, you would have the advantage of two striking Loliday ensembles. Our selection would be the cherry red velvet blouse. To this we would add a matching velvet skirt plus an ivory brocade one.

It was in this shop we discovered Jane Patton selecting a lovely sweater, reminiscent of the "sloppy joe" of the "40's. Your shopper and Jane could not decide whether the new versions fit tighter about the hips or that the hips of today fit more snugly into the sweaters.

* * *

WHILE TAKING a coffee break at a local drug store, we solved the problem of a gift for one of the men on our Christmas list. It is a Busy Man's Bar by Max Factor and holds cologne, hair dressing and aftershave. . . .each bottle with its own atomizer top.

As we have rather an aversion to delicate flower scents on men, we sniffed away and found that this is a clean crisp cologne and not to be confused with those on milady's dressing table.

This is essentially a gift for the male in your house. . . but as one whose morning tasks include replacing all caps, corks and etc., used in the master's morning toilet. . .this will have gift annotations for the giver also. Sells $2.75 plus tax.

* * *

AMONG THE NEW things offered this year is a new butane gas lighter by Ronson. This lighter possesses a sleek, rather slim, silver case. It is attractively boxed in a jewelry type case and the shop will personalize with initials free of extra charge.

With this lighter comes an auxiliary cylinder of gas and the lighter is refilled in the same manner as the fluid fueled lighter.

Another appealing feature is the adjustable flame.

This is a truly elegant gift for the hard to please gentlemen on your list. .priced at $17.50.

* * *

ARE YOU still looking for stocking-stuffers, prizes or grab-bag gifts? We've found another. Priced at only 98 cents, these are attractive and unusual ash-trays of black and brass with lavish mock jewel trim. There are about a half a dozen different styles and all are clever.

The same store has generous sized, square-type china ash trays in a terra cotta shade with an antique auto design at the center. These are only 19 cents a piece.

* * *

DOES YOUR house possess a tiny aspiring cook? We found the answer to her desire. .a miniature sink and stove combination. This little appliance produces running water through battery power. The tiny burners also can be turned on to give off a harmless red glow. This is regularly priced at $4.00 but can be had this week for only $2.98.

SHOULD YOU desire any additional information about items mentioned in this column, please call 3-5291 and ask for Sharon.

Army Gets Own Flag at Last

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER
Written Especially for Central Press Association and This Newspaper

The U. S. Army flag, newest national insignia.

THE NATION'S newest official national flag, that of the U. S. Army, is being unfurled for the first time throughout the country.

It is surprising that although various elements of the Army, from groups and corps down to separate battalions, had had their own colors and distinguishing flags, until recently there was none representative of the Army as a whole.

You may see the striking new insignia of white silk with the red, white, and blue of the national colors and a golden fringe, at the next parade you witness with units of the Army participating. It will be at the right of the Stars and Stripes themselves, and on the left will be the colors of the particular Army unit.

One of its most striking features and a characteristic which you cannot mistake is the 145 battle streamers which cascade from the spearhead, bearing the names of historic campaigns since 1775.

There is a definite color scheme to the streamers: Revolutionary War, scarlet with a white stripe; War of 1812, scarlet with two white stripes; Mexican, green with one white stripe; Civil war, appropriately enough with blue and gray equally divided; Indian wars, scarlet with two black stripes; Spanish-American war, yellow with two blue stripes.

* * *

THE MORE modern campaigns with names that conjure up memories of glorious exploits by Army units begin with the China Relief expedition, yellow with blue edges; Philippine Insurrection, blue with two red stripes; World War I, a brilliant splash of colors of the double rainbow; World War II, divided into American theater, blue with two groupings of other colors; European-African-Middle Eastern theaters, green and brown, and Asiatic-Pacific, orange with two stripe groupings.

What is described as "Korean Service" is the latest, with light blue bordered on each side with white and a white center strip.

The reason why the flag is just making its initial appearance generally, although Vice-President Richard Nixon officially presented it more than a year ago to secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker at Washington, D. C., is that each emblem is a laboriously hand-made job.

* * *

THE FIRST ONE has just appeared at the Fifth Corps Army headquarters here, and another has just led a parade at Fort Jay on Governors island, New York.

Everyone that sees it seems to agree that it was worth waiting for. On the white silk field, embroidered in blue, is a replica of the official seal of the War office. Beneath it is a broad scarlet scroll "United States Army," and below that in blue Arabic numerals is "1775," the year the Army was created with appointment of Gen. George Washington as commander-in-chief.

The seal, authorized May 8, 1779, by the Continental Congress, consists of a cannon in front of a drum; below the cannon three cannon balls; a mortar on a trunion and, below the mortar, two powder flasks.

In the center there is a Roman breastplate over a jupon (leather jacket). Above the breastplate rises a plain sword with the pommel and guard supporting a Phrygian cap between an esponton (pike) and an organizational color on one side, and a musket with a fixed bayonet and the national color on the other side. Above is its most novel feature, a rattlesnake holding in its mouth a scroll inscribed, "This We'll Defend."

The cannon, cannon balls, mortar and powder flasks are of the Revolutionary war vintage. The Phrygian cap is a traditional symbol of liberty.

The latter-day bureaucratic counterpart of Betsy Ross, legendary creator of the first national flag for George Washington in the spring of 1776, is the Heraldic branch of the Quartermaster General's office.

Under the Unification Act it services all parts of the Department of Defense, and this is its first "masterpiece." Already, however, they are experimenting with new designs for the field of stars in Old Glory, should new states be admitted for the first time since Arizona joined the Union in 1912.

OHHHHH, A POLICE CAR!—Wheel of the big truck is all over the crumpled police car on this New York bridge, and Officer Joseph Rauchet, who was standing in front of the police car at the time of the crash, is in critical condition. He was ticketing a car ahead when the truck climbed on. (International Soundphoto)

104 Ohio Penitentiary Men Given Approval for Paroles

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Pardon and Parole Commission Tuesday granted paroles to 104 inmates of Ohio Penitentiary, including eight convicted slayers.

The eight included one of the penitentiary's most elderly prisoners, 93-year-old John Morgan, who has been serving a second-degree murder sentence since March 28, 1928. Morgan still contends he is innocent of the slaying of Jacob Rosenberg, a junk dealer in Cuyahoga County.

Rosenberg's body was found in a home Morgan had rented and parole records in Columbus show Morgan was convicted on strong circumstantial evidence. Rosenberg was killed in December 1927.

Other paroles granted included:

Raleigh Smith, 70, received from Franklin County Jan. 28, 1957, to serve a manslaughter sentence in the fatal shooting of Ernest Eaton, Dec. 2, 1956.

Carl Flippin, 35, received from Montgomery County Jan. 22, 1957, to serve a manslaughter sentence in the April 28, 1956, fatal shooting of his wife, Juanita.

Lenvill Henson, 32, received Jan. 29, 1957, to receive a manslaughter sentence in the fatal shooting of Harvey Manis Oct. 28, 1956, after an argument.

James B. Moore, 34, received Nov. 26, 1947, from Summit County to serve a second-degree murder sentence in the May 11, 1947, fatal shooting of Russell Friend in what police said was a triangle love affair.

Walter Battle, 47, received Jan. 14, 1928, from Hamilton County to serve a second degree murder sentence in the Oct. 22, 1947, fatal beating of his common-law wife, Corrine Turnbaugh.

James Rounds, 48, received Nov. 17, 1946, from Mahoning County, to serve a second-degree murder sentence in the fatal shooting of his ex-wife Edna.

William Bledsoe, 41, received Jan. 21, 1955, from Mahoning County to serve consecutive sentences for manslaughter and carrying concealed weapons in the Oct. 8, 1954, fatal shooting of Leroy Walker at Struthers. Parole records indicate Bledsoe butted into an argument Walker was having with another man.

Moore and Battle will be paroled March 10. The other six will be released Jan. 23.

We have heard for years that a wine taster seldom indulges in the liquid. .tasting but never swallowing. If we are not to face bankruptcy on this assignment, we are going to have to take our cue from him.

As we made our rounds Martyne Sheline informed us that she could afford the gifts she was buying to give to others but the duplicates for herself were running a little steep.

That seems to be our problem here.

* * *

THE ONE selection we found that we were able to admire but not purchase was the lovely cocktail dress offered by a local shop for the expectant mother Recalling the simple black crepe dresses which at one time were almost a uniform for the enciente on party occasions. .we are very pleased to describe this gown consisting of straight line black faille skirt topped by a lovely blouse of blue taffeta under black lace. This is very reasonably priced at $12.95 and the skirt can continue to serve after the holiday parties under daytime blouses.

This was just one of many such maternity gowns offered by this shop.

* * *

IF YOU are a mix-matcher in your daytime wear, please do not fail to see the cocktail separates offered by another local shop. There is a nice selection of velvet tops, with and without sleeves . .as well as lovely evening sweaters.

These make smart toppings for the graceful flaring evening skirts of quilted jersey, brocade and velvet.

While this shop is well-known for its fine things. . . .the prices are not prohibative. One ensemble of skirt and blouse would run around $25 but with the addition of either a skirt or blouse, you would have the advantage of two striking holiday ensembles. Our selection would be the cherry red velvet blouse. To this we would add a matching velvet skirt plus an ivory brocade one.

It was in this shop we discovered Jane Patton selecting a lovely sweater, reminiscent of the "sloppy joe" of the "40's. Your shopper and Jane could not decide whether the new versions fit tighter about the hips or that the hips of today fit more snugly into the sweaters.

* * *

WHILE TAKING a coffee break at a local drug store, we solved the problem of a gift for one of the men on our Christmas list. It is a Busy Man's Bar by Max Factor and holds cologne, hair dressing and aftershave. . . .each bottle with its own atomizer top.

As we have rather an aversion to delicate flower scents on men, we sniffed away and found that this is a clean crisp cologne and not to be confused with those on milady's dressing table.

This is essentially a gift for the male in your house. . . but as one whose morning tasks include replacing all caps, corks and etc., used in the master's morning toilet. . .this will have gift annotations for the giver also. Sells $2.75 plus tax.

* * *

AMONG THE NEW things offered this year is a new butane gas lighter by Ronson. This lighter possesses a sleek, rather slim, silver case. It is attractively boxed in a jewelry type case and the shop will personalize with initials free of extra charge.

With this lighter comes an auxiliary cylinder of gas and the lighter is refilled in the same manner as the fluid fueled lighter.

Another appealing feature is the adjustable flame.

This is a truly elegant gift for the hard to please gentlemen on your list. .priced at $17.50.

* * *

ARE YOU still looking for stocking-stuffers, prizes or grab-bag gifts? We've found another. Priced at only 98 cents, these are attractive and unusual ash-trays of black and brass with lavish mock jewel trim. There are about a half a dozen different styles and all are clever.

The same store has generous sized, square-type china ash trays in a terra cotta shade with an antique auto design at the center. These are only 19 cents a piece.

* * *

DOES YOUR house possess a tiny aspiring cook? We found the answer to her desire. .a miniature sink and stove combination. This little appliance produces running water through battery power. The tiny burners also can be turned on to give off a harmless red glow. This is regularly priced at $4.00 but can be had this week for only $2.98.

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — A Catholic leader says the church must go beyond "exclusively Catholic programming" in getting religious content on the air in television and radio.

The Rev. John E. Kelly, director of the bureau of information of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, told the Catholic Broadcasters' Assn. it should keep in touch with key personnel in the general radio - TV field to offer practical suggestions for religious content.

Army Gets Own Flag at Last

By JOHN F. SEMBOWER
Written Especially for Central Press Association and This Newspaper

The U. S. Army flag, newest national insignia.

THE NATION'S newest official national flag, that of the U. S. Army, is being unfurled for the first time throughout the country.

It is surprising that although various elements of the Army, from groups and corps down to separate battalions, had had their own colors and distinguishing flags, until recently there was none representative of the Army as a whole.

You may see the striking new insignia of white silk with the red, white, and blue of the national colors and a golden fringe, at the next parade you witness with units of the Army participating. It will be at the right of the Stars and Stripes themselves, and on the left will be the colors of the particular Army unit.

One of its most striking features and a characteristic which you cannot mistake is the 145 battle streamers which cascade from the spearhead, bearing the names of historic campaigns since 1775.

There is a definite color scheme to the streamers: Revolutionary War, scarlet with a white stripe; War of 1812, scarlet with two white stripes; Mexican, green with one white stripe; Civil war, appropriately enough with blue and gray equally divided; Indian wars, scarlet with two black stripes; Spanish-American war, yellow with two blue stripes.

* * *

THE MORE modern campaigns with names that conjure up memories of glorious exploits by Army units begin with the China Relief expedition, yellow with blue edges; Philippine Insurrection, blue with two red stripes; World War I, a brilliant splash of colors of the double rainbow; World War II, divided into American theater, blue with two groupings of other colors; European-African-Middle Eastern theaters, green and brown, and Asiatic-Pacific, orange with two stripe groupings.

What is described as "Korean Service" is the latest, with light blue bordered on each side with white and a white center strip.

The reason why the flag is just making its initial appearance generally, although Vice-President Richard Nixon officially presented it more than a year ago to secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker at Washington, D. C., is that each emblem is a laboriously hand-made job.

Atlantic Coast Cagers Cuffing Leading Teams

North Carolina State Falls to Clemson; Tar Heels Win 34th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The way those fellows from that rugged bed of basketball called the Atlantic Coast Conference cuff the big guys around, it's a wonder North Carolina's winning streak has gone as far as it has.

It's enough to make a coach glad he's away from home grounds now and then, as Frank McGuire's North Carolina Tar Heels were in stretching their streak to 34 against George Washington, 86-59 in Washington, D.C.

Previously winless Clemson, fired by Walt Gibbons' 21 points, whipped 63-59 a N.C. State team Tuesday night that had won three straight, was ranked 12th nationally and figured as one of the chief ACC challengers to top-ranked North Carolina.

Action was sparse elsewhere among the major schools, with Texas, Dartmouth, St. Bonaventure, The Citadel, Chicago Loyola, and California, turning in noteworthy victories.

Texas won its third straight 73-41 over McMurry. Dartmouth's win string went to three in a 75-50 decision over Vermont, and unbeaten St. Bonaventure whipped Lemoyne for the 13th straight time, 58-46.

The Citadel downed William & Mary, 85-63, the Bulldogs' fourth Southern Conference victory; and Chicago Loyola, down four points at halftime, rattled in 46 points after intermission to crush South Dakota State 84-58. California went to two overtimes to fight off St. Marys (Calif), 67-57.

Wheaton of Illinois, the defending NCAA small college champ, won its 25th straight, 82-67 over Millikin.

Richmond whipped Washington and Lee 75.65, and Brown scored a 62-58 decision over Rhode Island.

Abilene Christian, hitting on 58 percent of its shots, defeated Baylor of the Southwest Conference, 82-66, and Fordham won an 81-80 squeaker with Yale.

Oregon downed San Jose 72-67, Washington State routed Whitworth 77-45,, Penn State out-possessioned Carnegie Tech 47-35, Villanova bounced Loyola of Baltimore 85-65, and Presbyterian whipped once-potent Furman, 96-78 in the other pairings.

Celtics Find Knicks Hard To Handle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Knickerbockers haven't set the world on fire this year in the National Basketball Assn., but to the Boston Celtics they're "too hot to handle."

The Knicks handed the Celts their third loss of the season, against 19 wins Tuesday night. It was the second time the New Yorkers turned the trick in four games with the Celts. The Knicks won 106-103 in the second game of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader, after the St. Louis Hawks bounced the Cincinnati Royals 102-90 in the opener.

At Detroit, the Syracuse Chiefs hung it on the Minneapolis Lakers 114-104 and the Philadelphia Warriors beat Detroit, 109-97.

The Celts couldn't stop a furious New York closing drive.

The Knicks, in winning their fifth in a row, began their surge with the Celts ahead, 92-88. They finally went ahead 102-101 on Richie Guerin's field goal.

Guerin led the winners with 28 points and Bill Russell had 25, plus 28 rebounds, for the Celts.

Bob Pettit and Cliff Hagan were too much for Cincinnati as they scored 50 points between them to lead the Hawks to an easy win. The Hawks hustled to a 57-29 halftime lead, enough to offset some fancy second half shooting by Clyde Lovellette, who finished with 30 points.

TV Listed as Chief Reason For Dip in Grid Attendance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

College football attendance dropped a bit in 1957 because (1) of television, (2) of low-scoring, ball-control tactics, (3) it's harder to get a spare buck these days, and (4) people have more ways to entertain themselves or be entertained than they used to.

The decline was rather small—1:41 per cent of the average at major colleges surveyed by the Associated Press. But that decline, in view of large enrollments and alumni bodies, was significant enough for the inclusion in the AP post-season questionnaire of a question about the reasons for the drop.

While TV, both the Saturday afternoon college variety and the Sunday afternoon pro games, was listed as the No. 1 reason, the replies brought some strong comments about "dull" split T, ball-control football.

One writer described it as resembling "22 men in a big crap game."

This kind of football, they said, was driving the fans away, especially where it was contrasted with the livelier, free-scoring professional football — either live or televised.

While a dozen of about 60 writers and broadcasters replying to the questionnaire gave ball control as the No. 1 reason for crowd decreases, 20 said television was the principal reason and several others gave that as a secondary cause.

A typical comment: "Television. No more striking example than the Oklahoma-Notre Dame game. A lot of fans preferred to stay at home and watch this ballyhooed game rather than attend a game involving teams they usually follow."

Others, commenting in a similar vein, added TV eliminates the hazards and inconveniences of traffic, parking and bad weather and also is cheaper than going to a game.

At least 10 mentioned the high cost of "live" football and tighter economic conditions. One pointed out attending a college game often takes the form of a weekend vacation.

Ohio Deer Season Gets Start Today

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio's annual four-day deer hunting season opened at 9 a. m. today and closes at 5 p. m. Saturday. Best prospects are in eastern and southern Ohio, the Division of wildlife reports.

In 86 of the state's 88 counties, each hunter may take one deer of either sex. In Scioto and Adams counties, bucks only may be taken.

The use of rifles is prohibited. Shotguns loaded with single ball or rifled slug may be used.

Each hunter must carry with him both a 1957 hunting license and a special $5 deer permit.

Durelle Is Favored To Defeat Luedee

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Freeswinging Jerry Luedee, a tree surgeon when he's not boxing, will try to cut Yvon Durelle down tonight in a light heavyweight TV fight.

Durelle, the British Empire light heavy champion, is a 7-5 favorite however, on the basis of a split decision over Luedee a year ago, a fine showing in a draw with highly regarded Tony Anthony, and greater experience.

Jeff Junior Cagers Win from Sedalia

The Jeffersonville juniors racked up their fourth victory in five games this season when they trounced the Sedalia juniors, 28 to 21 Tuesday noon on the Jeffersonville High School court.

Bowersville holds the only victory of the Jeff juniors, coached by George Greer.

On the Jeffersonville team for the Tuesday game were Lovett 5 points; Avey 0; Steward 0; Palmer 8; McDonald 9; Williams 6; Hidy 0; Price 0; Stanley 0 Ellison 0 Davidson 0; and Steffen 0;

On the Sedalia team were Ridenour 3; Downing 2; Long 4; Williams 8; Davis 4 and Mitchem 0.

The junior teams of Jeffersonville and Bloomingburg will tangle Thursday after school on the Jeffersonville floor in a game that will just above settle the junior title for Fayette County. Neither team has lost a game to another Fayette County team this season.

Hillsboro Wins Tuesday from Greenfield

Hillsboro's Indians served notice Tuesday night that they will be in the race for the Southcentral Ohio (SCO) League basketball crown this season when they swamped Greenfield's Tigers, 62 to 50.

The Lions of Washington C. H., who won their first SCO game last Friday at Wilmington, 58 to 47, came back Tuesday night to smother the Red Raiders from London, 81 to 52.

Wilmington's Hurricane recovered from its setback by the Lions last Friday to nose out Beaver Creek, 57 to 55, in a thriller Tuesday night.

The only other team in the league, Circleville's Tigers, was idle. The Tigers, rated as "the team to beat" for the SCO title this season, come to Washington C. H. to tangle with the Lions Friday night.

Ailing Buckeyes Returning Slowly

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State's ailing football players are slowly returning to action, but coach Woody Hayes still has his eye on three injured halfbacks.

Five Buckeyes returned to the field Tuesday during Ohio State's fourth practice for its Rose Bowl game with Oregon Jan. 1, but Don Clark, Joe Cannovino and Don Sutherin are still confined to the training room.

Cannavino, with a bruised hip, and Sutherin, with a pinched nerve in his back, are expected to be in shape by the time the Buckeyes leave for California late next week. Clark's future, however, is still uncertain. The Akron junior is hampered by a groin bruise.

New WHS Individual Scoring Record Established

Larry Milstead Racks Up 41 Points As Lions Rout London Raiders, 81-52

Larry Milstead hammered home 41 points for a new scoring record Tuesday night as the Washington C. H. Lion cagers mauled London's Red Raiders, 81 - 52 on the high school court here.

It was a big night for Milstead and all of his teammates, as nearly every one of the boys in blue turned in his best performance this season. Mistakes were at a minimum as the London attack fell flat.

Milstead's scoring record, set with a sensational 62 per cent accuracy from the floor, broke the old record of 35 points set by Jack Rettig in 1952.

* * *

AND HIS TEAMMATES themselves had a great time of it from start to finish. Jim McWilliams and Tom Swaim led the rebounding parade with eight and seven, respectively. Nearly everyone played a part in cutting the turnover total from '16 (last Friday against Wilmington) down to 12.

In the third frame, with Swaim and Bob Burris on the bench with four fouls apiece, second-stringers Phil Johnson and Floyd Southward teamed with Bill Herman, McWilliams and Milstead to hold the London squad in check.

The Madison County hoopsters, armed with height and reputed scoring power, never had a chance against the smoothly - clicking Lion onslaught. The home team pummeled its way into an early lead that was never in danger.

* * *

OPENING with a 3-2 zone defense, London quickly fell onto the short end of a 15 - 7 score, trailing 22 - 9 by the end of the first half. Changing to a man - to - man, the Londoners fared no better.

Exerting the power of their basketball machine with grim efficiency, the Lions led 38 - 21 at the half, 63 - 40 at the end of the third quarter and rode easily home to a final score of 81 - 52.

With Milstead's 62 - per cent average setting the pace, the Lions as a whole made 34 of 66 shots for a fabulous 51 per cent average. London, completing 29 of 62 shots, averaged only 33 per cent.

From the foul line, both teams took 22 shots. The Lions made 13 and the Londoners, 12.

* * *

COACH HERB RUSSELL'S team showed another important cut of basketball knowhow in the Tuesday night route: they kept London's "tall man," 6-foot, 7 - inch Bill Mead, down to only 11 points, thus proving their defense talent despite their lack of height.

It's a talent they will need Friday night when they tackle a powerful Circleville team that has burnt holes in every defense in the area for an impressive string of victories.

The Washington C. H. reserves had almost as good a night as their varsity brothers Tuesday, bringing the London benchers into camp, 44-33. Bill Southworth led the scoring with 16 points. Pete Pfersick and Marlyn Flee picked up eight each.

Madison Mills, New Holland Win Close Games Tuesday

Two of the three high school basketball teams in this area in action Tuesday emerged with victories in non-league games.

Madison Mills' Warriors nosed out Atlanta, 55 to 50, with a 9-point surge in the overtime period after finishing the regulation game in a 46-all deadlock.

It was the second win in seven games for the Warriors.

New Holland's rampaging Bulldogs racked their fifth victory in a row and their sixth in seven games this season with a 46 to 43 victory at Mt. Sterling.

Bloomingburg's Bulldogs were the only Fayette County team on the short end of the scoring Tuesday night. They bowed to a tall team of veterans from Madison South, 56 to 39. It was their only their third defeat in six games.

Jeffersonville's Tigers were idle Tuesday night, but they are to meet the Bulldogs at Bloomingburg Friday night in a game that could go a long way toward determining the Fayette County basketball champion for this season.

Madison Mills Wins From Atlanta, 55-50

In a see - saw battle that eventually ran into an overtime, the Warriors from Madison Mills edged the cagers at Atlanta, 55 to 50, Tuesday night.

It was the second victory in three games for Madison Mills.

After trailing to midway in the second period, the Warriors, sparked by Ron Ford ably assisted by Bob Belt, gradually pulled out in front, 26 - 23, by the end of the half.

The nip and tuck race continued through the third period and well into the final stanza before the Warriors faltered just enough for the Atlanta boys to tie the score at 46 - all when the buzzer ended the regular game.

That threw it into an overtime, but the brief intermission provided the time for Coach Tolman Mills to talk with the Warriors settle them down.

When they came back on the floor, the Warriors launched offense that was good for two field goals on a fast break and a long one from outside. Those were enough to win, but the Warriors added three more points from the foul line, one by Lynn Ford and two by Gene Dailey. Ford helped put the Warriors in front with his two field goals on the fast break. Belt got the long one.

The Madison Mills reserves romped off with the preliminary, 42 to 21

New Holland Wins Game at Mt. Sterling

New Holland's Bulldogs came back home from Mt. Sterling Tuesday night with a 46 to 43 victory in a ding - dong basketball game, the outcome of which hung in the balance until the final buzzer.

The lead changed hands time and again as the smaller Bulldogs offset the height advantage of the Mt. Sterling boys with a 38 per cent field goal average.

Mixing their attack, Roger Yeoman and John Lininger poured in 26 points from under the basket while Charles Free and Ken Speakman kept the Mt. Sterling defenders off balance with looping shots from the outside.

Both teams used a zone defense.

Actually, however, the Bulldogs won the game at the foul line, where they made 14 of their 22 free throws, compared with only 7 of 23 by Mt. Sterling.

The reserve game was won by Mt. Sterling, 32 to 27.

Bloomingburg Bows To Madison South

Bloomingburg's Bulldogs were unable to cope with the tall Madison South Cagers and went down, 56 to 39, in their game Tuesday night on the Bloomingburg floor.

It was their third defeat in six games this season.

Slow in getting started, the Bulldogs were trailing, 17-7, at the end of the first period, but matched their opponents, point for point, in the second, their best period of the game.

Coach Everett Rudolph of the Bulldogs described the Madison South team as "one of the best in this section this year" as he praised his team for its ability to shift its defensive tactics from zone, to a press and then man-to-man.

But in the last analysis, it was the height advantage of the Madison South boys that made the difference. Cold statistics tell the story: The Bulldogs got only 14 rebounds, compared to 37 for the Madison South boys.

Control of the board paved the way for the Madison South team to get 67 shots from the field and they connected with 26. The Bulldogs got only 48 shots from the field and made 17.

The Madison South cagers, all veterans, range from 6 feet to 6 feet 5 inches—an advantage the Bulldogs could not over come.

Bloomingburg, sparked by Earl Welsh with 12 points and Butch Porter with 6, won the reserve game, 24 to 18.

Atlantic Coast Cagers Cuffing Leading Teams

North Carolina State Falls to Clemson; Tar Heels Win 34th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The way those fellows from that rugged bed of basketball called the Atlantic Coast Conference cuff the big guys around, it's a wonder North Carolina's winning streak has gone as far as it has.

It's enough to make a coach glad he's away from home grounds now and then, as Frank McGuire's North Carolina Tar Heels were in stretching their streak to 34 against George Washington, 86-59 in Washington, D.C.

Previously winless Clemson, fired by Walt Gibbons' 21 points, whipped 63-59 a N.C. State team Tuesday night that had won three straight, was ranked 12th nationally and figured as one of the chief ACC challengers to top-ranked North Carolina.

Action was sparse elsewhere among the major schools, with Texas, Dartmouth, St. Bonaventure, The Citadel, Chicago Loyola, and California, turning in noteworthy victories.

Texas won its third straight 73-41 over McMurry. Dartmouth's win string went to three in a 75-50 decision over Vermont, and unbeaten St. Bonaventure whipped Lemoyne for the 13th straight time, 58-46.

The Citadel downed William & Mary, 85-63, the Bulldogs' fourth Southern Conference victory; and Chicago Loyola, down four points at halftime, rattled in 46 points after intermission to crush South Dakota State 84-58. California went to two overtimes to fight off St. Marys (Calif), 67-57.

Wheaton of Illinois, the defending NCAA small college champ, won its 25th straight, 82-67 over Millikin.

Richmond whipped Washington and Lee 75,65, and Brown scored a 62-58 decision over Rhode Island.

Abilene Christian, hitting on 58 percent of its shots, defeated Baylor of the Southwest Conference, 82-66, and Fordham won an 81-80 squeaker with Yale.

Oregon downed San Jose 72-67, Washington State routed Whitworth 77-45, Penn State out-possessioned Carnegie Tech 47-35, Villanova bounced Loyola of Baltimore 85-65, and Presbyterian whipped once-potent Furman, 96-78 in the other pairings.

Celtics Find Knicks Hard To Handle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Knickerbockers haven't set the world on fire this year in the National Basketball Assn., but to the Boston Celtics they're "too hot to handle."

The Knicks handed the Celts their third loss of the season, against 19 wins Tuesday night. It was the second time the New Yorkers turned the trick in four games with the Celts. The Knicks won 106-103 in the second game of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader, after the St. Louis Hawks bounced the Cincinnati Royals 102-90 in the opener.

At Detroit, the Syracuse Chiefs hung it on the Minneapolis Lakers 114-104 and the Philadelphia Warriors beat Detroit, 109-97.

The Celts couldn't stop a furious New York closing drive.

The Knicks, in winning their fifth in a row, began their surge with the Celts ahead, 92-88. They finally went ahead 102-101 on Richie Guerin's field goal.

Guerin led the winners with 28 points and Bill Russell had 25, plus 28 rebounds, for the Celts.

Bob Pettit and Cliff Hagan were too much for Cincinnati as they scored 50 points between them to lead the Hawks to an easy win. The Hawks hustled to a 57-29 halftime lead, enough to offset some fancy second half shooting by Clyde Lovellette, who finished with 30 points.

TV Listed as Chief Reason For Dip in Grid Attendance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

College football attendance dropped a bit in 1957 because (1) of television, (2) of low-scoring, ball-control tactics, (3) it's harder to get a spare buck these days, and (4) people have more ways to entertain themselves or be entertained than they used to.

The decline was rather small—1:41 per cent of the average at major colleges surveyed by the Associated Press. But that decline, in view of large enrollments and alumni bodies, was significant enough for the inclusion in the AP post-season questionnaire of a question about the reasons for the drop.

While TV, both the Saturday afternoon college variety and the Sunday afternoon pro games, was listed as the No. 1 reason, the replies brought some strong comments about "dull" split T, ball-control football.

One writer described it as resembling "22 men in a big crap game."

This kind of football, they said, was driving the fans away, especially where it was contrasted with the livelier, free-scoring professional football — either live or televised.

While a dozen of about 60 writers and broadcasters replying to the questionnaire gave ball control as the No. 1 reason for crowd decreases, 20 said television was the principal reason and several others gave that as a secondary cause.

A typical comment: "Television. No more striking example than the Oklahoma-Notre Dame game. A lot of fans preferred to stay at home and watch this ballyhooed game rather than attend a game involving teams they usually follow."

Others, commenting in a similar vein, added TV eliminates the hazards and inconveniences of traffic, parking and bad weather and also is cheaper than going to a game.

At least 10 mentioned the high cost of "live" football and tighter economic conditions. One pointed out attending a college game often takes the form of a weekend vacation.

Ohio Deer Season Gets Start Today

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio's annual four-day deer hunting season opened at 9 a. m. today and closes at 5 p. m. Saturday. Best prospects are in eastern and southern Ohio, the Division of wildlife reports.

In 86 of the state's 88 counties, each hunter may take one deer of either sex. In Scioto and Adams counties, bucks only may be taken.

The use of rifles is prohibited. Shotguns loaded with single ball or rifled slug may be used.

Each hunter must carry with him both a 1957 hunting license and a special $5 deer permit.

Durelle Is Favored To Defeat Luedee

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Freeswinging Jerry Luedee, a tree surgeon when he's not boxing, will try to cut Yvon Durelle down tonight in a light heavyweight TV fight.

Durelle, the British Empire light heavy champion, is a 7-5 favorite however, on the basis of a split decision over Luedee a year ago, a fine showing in a draw with highly regarded Tony Anthony, and greater experience.

The Jeffersonville juniors racked up their fourth victory in five games this season when they trounced the Sedalia juniors, 28 to 21 Tuesday noon on the Jeffersonville High School court.

Bowersville holds the only victory of the Jeff juniors, coached by George Greer.

On the Jeffersonville team for the Tuesday game were Lovett 5 points; Avey 0; Steward 0; Palmer 8; McDonald 9; Williams 6; Hidy 0; Price 0; Stanley 0 Ellison 0 Davidson 0; and Steffen 0;

On the Sedalia team were Rideenour 3; Downing 2; Long 4; Williams 8; Davis 4 and Mitchem 0.

The junior teams of Jeffersonville and Bloomingburg will tangle Thursday after school on the Jeffersonville floor in a game that will just above settle the junior title for Fayette County. Neither team has lost a game to another Fayette County team this season.

Hillsboro Wins Tuesday from Greenfield

Hillsboro's Indians served notice Tuesday night that they will be in the race for the Southcentral Ohio (SCO) League basketball crown this season when they swamped Greenfield's Tigers, 62 to 50.

The Lions of Washington C. H., who won their first SCO game last Friday at Wilmington, 58 to 47, came back Tuesday night to smother the Red Raiders from London, 81 to 52.

Wilmington's Hurricane recovered from its setback by the Lions last Friday to nose out Beaver Creek, 57 to 55, in a thriller Tuesday night.

The only other team in the league, Circleville's Tigers, was idle. The Tigers, rated as "the team to beat" for the SCO title this season, come to Washington C. H. to tangle with the Lions Friday night.

Ailing Buckeyes Returning Slowly

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State's ailing football players are slowly returning to action, but coach Woody Hayes still has his eye on three injured halfbacks.

Five Buckeyes returned to the field Tuesday during Ohio State's fourth practice for its Rose Bowl game with Oregon Jan. 1, but Don Clark, Joe Cannovino and Don Sutherin are still confined to the training room.

Cannavino, with a bruised hip, and Sutherin, with a pinched nerve in his back, are expected to be in shape by the time the Buckeyes leave for California late next week. Clark's future, however, is still uncertain. The Akron junior is hampered by a groin bruise.

The Zulus of South Africa believe that every man is accompanied by an ancestral spirit wherever he goes. The spirit takes the form of a snake that travels underground. When the snake dies, the man himself dies.

New WHS Individual Scoring Record Established

Larry Milstead Racks Up 41 Points As Lions Rout London Raiders, 81-52

Larry Milstead hammered home 41 points for a new scoring record Tuesday night as the Washington C. H. Lion cagers mauled London's Red Raiders, 81 - 52 on the high school court here.

It was a big night for Milstead and all of his teammates, as nearly every one of the boys in blue turned in his best performance this season. Mistakes were at a minimum as the London attack fell flat.

Milstead's scoring record, set with a sensational 62 per cent accuracy from the floor, broke the old record of 35 points set by Jack Rettig in 1952.

It was done through the efforts of the flashy forward's own sharp eye, plus the work of his teammates who gave him the ball consistently in the right place at the right time.

* * *

AND HIS TEAMMATES themselves had a great time of it from start to finish. Jim McWilliams and Tom Swaim led the rebounding parade with eight and seven, respectively. Nearly everyone played a part in cutting the turnover total from 16 (last Friday against Wilmington) down to 12.

In the third frame, with Swaim and Bob Burris on the bench with four fouls apiece, second-stringers Phil Johnson and Floyd Southward teamed with Bill Herman, McWilliams and Milstead to hold the London squad in check.

The Madison County hoopsters, armed with height and reputed scoring power, never had a chance against the smoothly - clicking Lion onslaught. The home team pummeled its way into an early lead that was never in danger.

* * *

OPENING with a 3-2 zone defense, London quickly fell onto the short end of a 15 - 7 score, trailing 22 - 9 by the end of the first half. Changing to a man - to - man, the Londoners fared no better.

Exerting the power of their basketball machine with grim efficiency, the Lions led 38 - 21 at the half, 63 - 40 at the end of the third quarter and rode easily home to a final score of 81 - 52.

With Milstead's 62 - per cent average setting the pace, the Lions as a whole made 34 of 66 shots for a fabulous 51 per cent average. London, completing 29 of 62 shots, averaged only 33 per cent.

From the foul line, both teams took 22 shots. The Lions made 13 and the Londoners, 12.

* * *

COACH HERB RUSSELL'S team showed another important cut of basketball knowhow in the Tuesday night route: they kept London's "tall man," 6-foot, 7 - inch Bill Mead, down to only 11 points, thus proving their defense talent despite their lack of height.

It's a talent they will need Friday night when they tackle a powerful Circleville team that has burnt holes in every defense in the area for an impressive string of victories.

The Washington C. H. reserves had almost as good a night as their varsity brothers Tuesday, bringing the London benchers into camp, 44-33. Bill Southworth led the scoring with 16 points. Pete Pfersick and Marlyn Flee picked up eight each.

Madison Mills, New Holland Win Close Games Tuesday

Two of the three high school basketball teams in this area in action Tuesday emerged with victories in non-league games.

Madison Mills' Warriors nosed out Atlanta, 55 to 50, with a 9-point surge in the overtime period after finishing the regulation game in a 46-all deadlock.

It was the second win in seven games for the Warriors.

New Holland's rampaging Bulldogs racked their fifth victory in a row and their sixth in seven games this season with a 46 to 43 victory at Mt. Sterling.

Bloomingburg's Bulldogs were the only Fayette County team on the short end of the scoring Tuesday night. They bowed to a tall team of veterans from Madison South, 56 to 39. It was their only their third defeat in six games.

Jeffersonville's Tigers were idle Tuesday night, but they are to meet the Bulldogs at Bloomingburg Friday night in a game that could go a long way toward determining the Fayette County basketball champion for this season.

Madison Mills Wins From Atlanta, 55-50

In a see - saw battle that eventually ran into an overtime, the Warriors fron Madison Mills edged the cagers at Atlanta, 55 to 50, Tuesday night.

It was the second victory in three games for Madison Mills.

After trailing to midway in the second period, the Warriors, sparked by Ron Ford ably assisted by Bob Belt, gradually pulled out in front, 26 - 23, by the end of the half.

The nip and tuck race continued through the third period and well into the final stanza before the Warriors faltered just enough for the Atlanta boys to tie the score at 46 - all when the buzzer ended the regular game.

That threw it into an overtime, but the brief intermission provided the time for Coach Tolman Mills to talk with the Warriors settle them down.

When they came back on the floor the Warriors launched offense that was good for two field goals on a fast break and a long one from outside. Those were enough to win, but the Warriors added three more points from the foul line, one by Lynn Ford and two by Gene Dailey. Ford helped put the Warriors in front with his two field goals on the fast break. Belt got the long one.

The Madison Mills reserves romped off with the preliminary, 42 to 21

New Holland Wins Game at Mt. Sterling

New Holland's Bulldogs came back home from Mt. Sterling Tuesday night with a 46 to 43 victory in a ding - dong basketball game, the outcome of which hung in the balance until the final buzzer.

The lead changed hands time and again as the smaller Bulldogs offset the height advantage of the Mt. Sterling boys with a 38 per cent field goal average.

Mixing their attack, Roger Yeoman and John Lininger poured in 26 points from under the basket while Charles Free and Ken Speakman kept the Mt. Sterling defenders off balance with looping shots from the outside.

Both teams used a zone defense.

Actually, however, the Bulldogs won the game at the foul line, where they made 14 of their 22 free throws, compared with only 7 of 23 by Mt. Sterling.

The reserve game was won by Mt. Sterling, 32 to 27.

Bloomingburg Bows To Madison South

Bloomingburg's Bulldogs were unable to cope with the tall Madison South Cagers and went down, 56 to 39, in their game Tuesday night on the Bloomingburg floor.

It was their third defeat in six games this season.

Slow in getting started, the Bulldogs were trailing, 17-7, at the end of the first period, but matched their opponents, point for point, in the second, their best period of the game.

Coach Everett Rudolph of the Bulldogs described the Madison South team as "one of the best in this section this year" as he praised his team for its ability to shift its defensive tactics from zone, to a press and then man-to-man.

But in the last analysis, it was the height advantage of the Madison South boys that made the difference. Cold statistics tell the story: The Bulldogs got only 14 rebounds, compared to 37 for the Madison South boys.

Control of the board paved the way for the Madison South team to get 67 shots from the field and they connected with 26. The Bulldogs got only 48 shots from the field and made 17.

The Madison South cagers, all veterans, range from 6 feet to 6 feet 5 inches—an advantage the Bulldogs could not over come.

Bloomingburg, sparked by Earl Welsh with 12 points and Butch Porter with 6, won the reserve game, 24 to 18.

Dentist's Traffic Troubles Multiply

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Dr. Robert H. Miller, a dentist, went to City Hall to pay a traffic fine.

When he returned to his car it had been tagged for illegal parking.

Miller took the new ticket across the block to police headquarters and explained his troubles to Sgt. James Newman of the Traffic Division.

While he was talking another patrolman tagged his car again and had it towed away.

Miller said his plight really stemmed from the fact he was thinking about something else all the time. It was his 30th wedding anniversary.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Gas Rate Issue To Be Raised at Council Session?

DP&L May Offer New Rate Ordinance Wednesday Night

Representatives of the Dayton Power and Light Co. are expected to call on City Council at its regular meeting Wednesday night to discuss withdrawal of a gas rate ordinance proposed April 25 to submit a new ordinance.

DP&L indicated in a letter to City Manager James F. Parkinson two weeks ago they wished the audience with Council, but the utility did not disclose the nature of its new proposal which is expected to be a higher figure than the 8.3 per cent increase asked for residential and commercial consumers last spring.

The company asked a 20 per cent increase for Greenfield several months ago.

* * *

COUNCILMEN have been studying a report on DP&L's plant and distribution costs here, prepared by Public Utilities Commission engineers at Council's request.

Another matter which probably will come before the city's legislative body Wednesday night is the appointment of a city auditor to replace Miss Marie Melvin who will retire Jan. 1.

City Manager James F. Parkinson said he has received three formal applications for the job and a number of informal inquiries in answer to an advertisement placed by Council.

Eastside PTA Holds Christmas Program

Christmas in song was the theme of Eastside Parent-Teacher Assn. meeting held Tuesday night at the school.

Roger Hoffman, president of the group, introduced Mrs. Ellen Pensyl, elementary school music teacher who presented her Eastside sixth grade pupils in a program of carols.

The Rev. Donis D. Patterson, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, presented the Story of Christmas in hymns, giving the background of the hymns—how and when they were written and by whom.

Mr. Patterson, who was introduced by Otis B. Core, program chairman, distributed booklets containing the hymns discussed, and members of the association joined in group singing.

Light refreshments followed the meeting, with Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Backenstoe and Mrs. Russell Miller serving on the social committee. Other members of the program committee were Eddie Cobb and Clarence Cooper.

Mrs. Ruthanna Hopkins, former Eastside principal and now principal of Central Elementary School, was a guest.

Holy Name Society Plans Fish Fry, Other Social Events

John Murphy, president, conducted the regular monthly meeting of the Holy Name Society at St. Colman's church Tuesday night.

It was decided that the group would sponsor a fish fry on Jan. 24 from 4 to 7:30 p. m., following this up with similar social events throughout the year.

Father Richard J. Connelly, spiritual director of the society, addressed the members with regard to obscene literature available upon newsstands in most cities and the showing of movies that are not in good moral taste.

Following the business meeting a lunch was served by Don Ludwick, Gene White and A. J. Conaway.

Christmas Theme For AAUW Meeting

The December meeting of the Washington C. H. branch of the American Assn. of University Women was held in a Christmas atmosphere in the home of Mrs. John P. Case.

Only routine matters were taken up at the short business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. Colin C. Campbell.

Grover Baber, vocal music teacher in the city school, sand several numbers and then led the group in singing Christmas carols. Mrs. Case played the piano accompaniment for the solos and the organ accompaniment for the group singing.

One of the highlights was the Christmas Prayer, given by Mrs. Ray Wilson.

Each of the members had brought a Christmas gift or decoration which she had made to the meeting. These were shown and each was given a short time to explain how her article had been made.

After the meeting, the articles all were displayed on a table so they could be examined more closely during the refreshment period.

The program was in charge of the arts study group headed by Miss Lyda Grace Wissler. Other members of the committee were Mrs. Thomas Parrett, Mrs. Ray Wilson, Mrs. George O'Briant, Mrs. Stanley Scott and Mrs. Robert Milburn.

Car Reported Stolen Found in Parking Lot

A Hamilton man's auto, reported stolen to police here about 1:40 a. m. Tuesday, was found Tuesday afternoon in the same area where he said he parked it.

Police said they felt "pretty certain" the car had been there all along and that the man, William A. Meehan, had forgotten where he parked it.

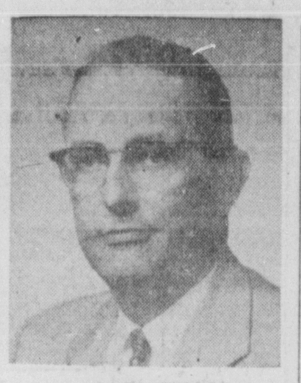

Meehan told police he parked the car on S. North St. near St. Colman's Church about 10 p. m. and couldn't find it when he went looking for it again.

It was located in a parking place reserved for Dr. R. H. Nauss, 110 S. North St., in a parking lot at Court and North Sts.

Gas Rate Issue To Be Raised at Council Session?

DP&L May Offer New Rate Ordinance Wednesday Night

Representatives of the Dayton Power and Light Co. are expected to call on City Council at its regular meeting Wednesday night to discuss withdrawal of a gas rate ordinance proposed April 25 to submit a new ordinance.

DP&L indicated in a letter to City Manager James F. Parkinson two weeks ago they wished the audience with Council, but the utility did not disclose the nature of its new proposal which is expected to be a higher figure than the 8.3 per cent increase asked for residential and commercial consumers last spring.

The company asked a 20 per cent increase for Greenfield several months ago.

COUNCILMEN have been studying a report on DP&L's plant and distribution costs here, prepared by Public Utilities Commission engineers at Council's request.

Another matter which probably will come before the city's legislative body Wednesday night is the appointment of a city auditor to replace Miss Marie Melvin who will retire Jan. 1.

City Manager James F. Parkinson said he has received three formal applications for the job and a number of informal inquiries in answer to an advertisement placed by Council.

Light refreshments followed the meeting, with Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Backenstoe and Mrs. Russell Miller serving on the social committee. Other members of the program committee were Eddie Cobb and Clarence Cooper.
